Emergency U.K. Airlift

Times News Services

LONDON — The government today ordered military planes to mount an emergency airlift of food and other vital supplies to Britain's most northerly offshore islands.

The airlift was ordered to head off threatened starvation in the Orkney and Shetland islands north of Scotland, which have been virtually isolated by a nationwide ports shutdown now in its 14th day. (See also Page 15).

Striking longshoremen refused to load even emergency supplies to the 34,000 islanders.

The military airlift to the Orkneys and Shetlands was the first time the government has used the emergency powers it took a week ago.

But it postponed at least until next week use of troops to move foodstuffs blockaded in strikebound seaports around the country.

There appeared little prospect of a return to work for another 10 days.

Wide-bellied Hercules transport aircraft at the Royal Air Force base of Kinloss, northern Scotland, were standing by to fly 180 tons of flour, cereals, cooking fats and sugar to the Orkney and Shetland isles.

An RAF spokesman said the airlift will begin Friday. Private airlifts have already proved insufficient.

The dock workers ignored pleas from islanders' leaders for a temporary break in the docks blockade which has left hundreds of tons of vital supplies for the Hebrides and other islands strike-bound on the quays of Glasgow docks.

Another airlift to the western isles was expected shortly.

"If the government wants these supplies moved, they should use their emergency powers," one longshoremen's official said.

"The ball is in the government's court — they should do something about it."

Prime Minister Edward Heath's government last week declared a state of emergency to cope with the effects of the dock strike — which has crippled imports of food for animals and humans and stalled exports worth millions of dollars — but has not yet invoked it.

The plight of the western isles and of the Shetland and Orkney Islands, all of which rely on supplies from the mainland, was a foretaste of what is in store for all of Britain if the strike goes on much longer.

Coquitlam Battles Mosquitoes, Writs

Efforts to combat a plague of mosquitoes have brought the municipality of Coquitlam into a court battle over aerial spraying.

Two-year-old Melanie Meades (left), who has been under doctor's care for two days because of infected mosquito bites, is among residents of the Vancouver suburb who have been struck by what acting mayor Stan Hofseth describes as "the worst plague of mosquitoes since 1948."

But aerial spraying of the pesticide Malathion, which began Monday, has resulted in writs being filed in Supreme Court to prevent it on health grounds.

Among those filing writs to stop the spraying are Mr. and Mrs. John McAdam (below) who with neighbors are flying helium-filled balloons over their property to keep away the plane doing the spraying.

Meanwhile, in neighboring Port Coquitlam, the city council has also voted to begin aerial spraying of Malathion.

NEWS BRIEFS

Fallers Meet

NANAIMO (CP) — A meeting of dissident Vancouver Island fallers has been called for today at Parksville to discuss recent firings of fallers by forest company employers. Faller spokesman Chuck Evans said the meeting will include a secret-ballot vote to determine if the men favor continuation of their fight.

Five Arrested

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five persons were arrested today in Vancouver's west-end and several weapons seized by city police after reports that an armored car was to be held up.

Hail, Twisters Rip Into Quebec Farms

By The Canadian Press

The weather system which devastated southeastern Quebec's farmlands early this week struck again Wednesday as hailstorms, rain and high winds brought power blackouts to thousands of residents.

Sporadic blackouts lasting 10 minutes to six hours hit a 30-mile stretch from St. Césaire to Waterloo, near Granby, 50 miles east of Montreal. Boucherville and Chateauguay, just south of Montreal, also suffered power fails.

Another small twister hit the outskirts of Ottawa.

Victory Goldblum, Quebec minister responsible for the environment, is to make a helicopter tour of the area today to assess the damages inflicted by torrential rains which began Monday night.

In addition, officials of the roads, natural resources and agriculture departments, the Quebec Housing Corp., provincial police, and civil protection agencies are on the scene, Premier Robert Bourassa said Wednesday.

A spokesman for Premier Bourassa said a decision may be taken today about what measures the government will take to help farmers and municipalities in the ravaged region.

Maurice Guinosis, president of the Montreal Association of Market Gardeners, estimated that $5 million worth of vegetables and hay crops have been ruined.

11-YEAR-OLD HIT IN DRUG ROBBERY

BOSTON (AP) — An 11-year-old boy is in poor condition and a 15-year-old companion is in critical condition following a shootout at a Roxbury variety store where, police said, a robbery was staged to get money to buy heroin.

Another youth was arrested at Boston City Hospital where he brought one of his wounded friends, and a fourth, who police said had a $40-a-day heroin habit, is at large.

Police Capt. Joseph Cummings said one of the boys has "needle tracks" on both arms and has admitted having a heroin habit.

Police said four youths entered the store and one of them pulled a gun on store owner John Sturino. Sturino pulled a gun from his belt and fired three shots at the youths.

Gunman's Capture Sparks IRA Riots

Times News Services

BELFAST — Fierce rioting erupted in Belfast Wednesday night following the capture of guerrilla leader Martin Meehan.

But it would do nothing about the millions of pistols, and revolvers already in private hands.

In the Ardoyne district — Meehan's stronghold and one of the IRA's "no-go" areas until troops invaded with tanks 10 days ago — a mob of 2,000 youths and women hurling rocks and fire bombs besieged more than 500 soldiers.

The troops finally drove the mob off with rubber bullets.

Meehan, 26, a docker who became a top leader of the provisional wing of the outlawed IRA, had been on the run since last December when he staged a dramatic break from Belfast's Crumlin Road jail.

Several weeks ago he returned to his old haunts in the Ardoyne, never sleeping two nights in the same house or drinking twice in the same pub.

It is not known whether Meehan would be put on trial or interned.

The IRA said in a statement that Meehan gave himself up to avoid bloodshed "by those thugs in uniform."

ELECTION ROUNDUPSocreds First to Nominate Full Slate of Candidates

This time, Retiring are party whip Hunter Vogel of Langley, Works Minister W. N. Chant of Victoria, Recreation Minister Ken Kiernan of Chilliwack, Harold Merleens of Vancouver and Dudley Little of Skeena.

Incumbent John Tisdale of Saanich and the Islands lost the Social Credit nomination to Foster Isherwood but may seek re-election as an independent.

In addition, another Social Credit incumbent — Dr. Howard McDermid — has switched ridings. He moved from Alberni to Oak Bay, where he is challenging Tory G. Scott Wallace.

By far the most durable of the Social Credit candidates is Premier Bennett himself. He has held the Okanagan South riding since 1941 and is fighting his 11th campaign there.

The median age of the Social Credit candidates works out to 49½ years. The party slate includes 10 business executives, six teachers, six lawyers, five car dealers, four realtors, four merchants, three ministers, two farmers and 15 others with a variety of occupations.

The party offers five woman candidates this time around including three incumbents, two farmers and 15 others with a variety of occupations.

In Santa Ana, Calif., a spokesman for the district attorney's office said a copy of the letter had been sent to the land deal when he was picked up.

"We don't know for a fact that the land was to be used by the drug cult but it sure looks that way," the spokesman said in a telephone interview.

Meantime, in Vernon, rancher Tom Collins confirmed that Youngstrom placed a $6,000 deposit on the property in June.

"He signed an interim agreement to purchase the land for $100 an acre," Mr. Collins said.

"He was up here with his wife and son and as far as I know he wanted the property for a hobby farm."

Kalamalka Realty of Vernon, handled the transaction.

A company spokesman said Youngstrom was to have taken possession of the land by July 1. He said it was to have been registered in the name of Youngstrom's mother, a resident of Grant's Pass, Ore.

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said he would ask for a report from the RCMP on the matter and added that his department would do whatever possible to prevent the sale of any land for the purpose of turning it into a drug commune.

Trudeau Not Yet Decided

VANCOUVER — Prime Minister Trudeau said today he cannot yet promise that Canada will have a federal "election-free fall."

He made the statement Thursday morning while talking with radio "hot-liner" Jack Webster on a network of 21 B.C. radio stations.

"I haven't made that promise yet," Trudeau said in answering a Webster question, adding that he was returning to Ottawa later today after a West Coast holiday. He would be discussing federal problems with cabinet ministers and would then decide.

Trudeau agreed with a Webster ground-rule that the program would not become involved in the current provincial general election campaign, which ends with voting day Aug. 30.

SEAWALL STROLLS in Vancouver's Stanley Park are proving popular pastimes lately as the sun continues to shine over the province. Even the

ELECTION ROUNDUP

minated Wednesday to contest the Chilliwack riding for the Progressive Conservatives.

A group of Social Credit party members in the constituency said earlier they would support the Conservative candidate following charges that Socred candidate Harvey Schroeder obtained the nomination meeting with supporters of his Evangelical church.

NDP leader Dave Barrett told a rally in Nelson that Socred MLA Howard McDairmid's statement that there was no way Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gagliardi would succeed the premier as party leader pointed up the "ruthless campaign" being carried on by the Socreds.

Up in Stewart, on the B.C.-Alaska border, Liberal Leader David Anderson declared that the only reason the Tories are in the campaign is to split the vote and ensure Social Credit's return to power.

The long-term Tory objective is "federal," he said. "They don't give a damn about the province of B.C. but they are preparing for the next federal election."

Conservative provincial candidates will turn up as federal candidates on the strength of advertising received during the B.C. campaign, he predicted.

In Fort St. John, Warren said his talks with Peace River area residents indicate they feel far closer to Alberta than to B.C., partly because they are "being ignored by the provincial government sitting so far away in Victoria."

A conservative government would join with Ottawa to try and move the resources of northern Canada through B.C. and win the race with "my friend, Premier (Peter) Lougheed of Alberta" who is out in front in trying to do the same thing.

A Tory program for the area would include bolstering agriculture and stimulating secondary industry, establishing regional government offices and expanding road and rail transportation.

Warren also suggested that B.C. needs a quasi-independent highway commission to plan and build roads. The commission would be financed by gasoline and other transportation taxes, by tolls for non-residents on some roads and by its own debentures.

He said this would permit much-needed expansion of roads without cutting into general revenues and would enable development suited to local needs.

One of the jobs of a proposed auditor-general's department would be to scrutinize commission operations and make sure "political abuses" were avoided.

A Conservative Government also would establish a ministry of federal-provincial affairs to lobby for B.C. interests and a consumer affairs department to answer consumer complaints.

Anderson, prior to his Stewart visit, attended a luncheon in Prince Rupert where he criticized the government's decision to ship Peace River coal out of Squamish rather than Rupert.

Anderson said the decision would slow the natural development of Prince Rupert while saddling the already crowded Vancouver area with still more development.

A Liberal government would accept Ottawa's offer to a joint federal-provincial rail and highway network that would open up northwestern B.C. and extend in to The Yukon, he said. This proposal would include sending northern products through Prince Rupert.

He also said he would appoint a minister of northern affairs to bring northern problems under closer scrutiny. The minister of lands, forests and water resources now has that responsibility and "he really cannot put too much time on it."

In Vancouver, Liberal MLA Barrie Clark announced, on behalf of Anderson, that a Liberal program for senior citizens would guarantee them at least $200 a month.

He read a telegram from Anderson, which said Clark would be given a new portfolio in the field of aid to senior citizens should the Liberals from the next government.

The program also calls for rent assistance, free distribution of prescription medicines and medical appliances such as eyeglasses and extended care at the standard $1-a-day rate under B.C. hospital insurance.

Elsewhere in campaign action, something of a furor arose with the disclosure that Dr. Kenneth Hill, president-elect of the B.C. Medical Association, has sent a personal letter to many doctors suggesting they support the Tories.

On another issue, Social Credit League President George Driediger termed Tory leader Warren an "ignorant and stupid party leader."

For suggesting the Socreds are pouring money into the riding of Peace River South in an attempt to defeat incumbent Tory candidate Don Marshall, a recent defector from Social Credit.

But the pitiful comment of the day came from that old stand-by and non-candidate Margaret (Ma) Murray, editor of the Bridge-River-Lillooet News.

She declared at an NDP rally in Lytton that "the chicken-brain people who continue to give Bennett a majority and lap it up like cream don't know what they're doing."

In Masset on the Queen Charlotte Islands, Anderson was scheduled to tell a lunch meeting today about Liberal intentions for improving health care.

The fear of many elderly citizens is they will get sick but not sick enough for a hospital bed, he said. They are afraid their savings will be wiped out by the cost of nursing home care.

A Liberal government will bring them financial help in a plan similar to that operating in Alberta. Subsidies will cut the average $10 a day nursing home care to about $3.

Alberta has 49 nursing home beds for every 1,000 of population over age 65, he said, in contrast to only 15 in B.C. Number of beds in the province needs to be increased to about 5,000 from 3,500.

On the local scene, Saanich Ald. Edith Gunning, a PC candidate in Victoria riding, told a coffee party meeting Wednesday the next provincial government may be the last with a clear chance to reverse the tide of drug addiction which is destroying character, personality and health across the country.

The current government's drug education program is merely nibbling at the prob-

Only Bootleggers Mourn Prohibition End in Bombay

The Manchester Guardian

BOMBAY — This citadel of prohibition for more than two decades fell this week to the forces of liberalism when the Maharashtra state government rescinded a 22-year-old ban on alcoholic beverages.

The announcement was greeted with wild cheers in the state assembly while the populace at large celebrated by promptly opening bottles whose price suddenly dropped.

Originally the state government had planned to abolish prohibition on Aug. 15 — the silver jubilee of Indian independence. But it changed its mind and advanced its decision because it felt that some freedom-fighters, to whom prohibition is an article of faith, might feel offended.

The end of Bombay's long dry era has been slow in coming, but this week's denunciation was by no means unexpected. Unlike former political leader Morarji Desai, who foisted prohibition on Bombay in the first place, the present rulers of Maharashtra are progressive people who have long been trying to do away with the dry laws.

But the fact that they have had to wait so long shows the strength of conservatism, even though the dismal failure of prohibition has been manifest in the bootlegging that has flourished in Bombay all these years. Indeed the only mourners of prohibition Tuesday evening were the bootleggers and the prohibition police, who used to collect their weekly hush money from smugglers as well as keepers of sleazy speakeasies. It is not only that prohibition spawned a wide network of corruption, but in its initial years at least, the residents of this city went through a virtual nightmare.

In his puritanical zeal to improve the people's morals, Desai let loose a veritable reign of terror. Tens of thousands of people were harassed every year on suspicion that they might have had a drink. Private homes and hotel suites were raided to see if anyone was drinking without due authorization, which was rarely available. No friendly gathering was immune from a sudden search by police tipped off by some disgruntled servant or simply attracted an unusually large number of cars parked outside.

It is difficult to find a well-to-do Bombay resident in his middle 40s who has not been marched off to the police station some time or another for all kinds of tests to detect drunkenness.

This crazy state of affairs ended in 1964. Whether Morarji Desai's exclusion from the late prime minister Nehru's cabinet some months earlier had anything to do with the dry laws reform will never be known, but Desai was soon back in the government to stop any further retreat from prohibition in Bombay, although even as deputy prime minister he couldn't prevent other states from relaxing or abolishing prohibition.

In Bombay, however, prohibition's death continued to be slow. Not until 100 people died after drinking bootlegged hooch was the state government able to allow free drinking of beer in hotels and restaurants, although all restrictions on hard liquor remained.

Although the law allowed it, beer remained outside the reach of most people because of its high price — about $1.50 a bottle. This explains why the state government has wisely slashed excise duties on beer and lighter drinks along with withdrawing prohibition.

Anticipating repeal, Indian and foreign breweries have been expanding of late and it is estimated that India will soon produce so much beer that its price will be reduced to about a fourth of what it is at present.

This, plus a judicious temperance campaign, will undoubtedly be better gift for the independence silver jubilee than Bombay's three million people had dared to hope for.

Meanwhile, Gujarat remains the only dry state in India today, but it too may be expected to follow Maharashtra's lead and thus help eliminate what many Indians have nicknamed "feetotalitarianism."

OVERPOPULATION appears to be a problem for Sandy Rogers, 8, of Surrey, when he has only one milk bottle and 16 hungry St. Bernard puppies.

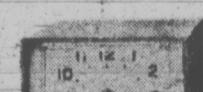

The pups' mother seems to be making a regular practice of large families — her previous litter numbered 14.

Calgary Police Back No Confidence Votes

CALGARY (CP) — The 670-member Calgary Police Association passed a non-confidence motion against the police commission and censured Mayor Rod Sykes during a closed meeting Wednesday night.

It was another chapter in the continuing dispute over the selection and later withdrawal of chief Charles R. Gain as head of the 700-member Calgary force.

Zoning Fee in Oak Bay

Oak Bay council will probably charge fees for zoning applications.

Discussion of the fee procedure came after the committee had decided to turn down a request by Ronald Crow to subdivide property on Lark-down.

Crow had circulated a petition in the area to gain support.

The municipality had also circulated a petition to neighbors, receiving a totally different picture.

Smith observed, "It shows that some people will sign a petition just to accommodate. The way we do this (writing the residents and spelling out all the implications) gives a far better picture."

Gabriola Swim Areas Set

Oak Bay council will probably charge fees for zoning applications in order to cut down on "sledgehammer" requests.

Council's zoning committee today agreed the municipality should follow the example of Victoria and Saanich, who are already charging fees for zoning applications.

Ald. Brian Smith said this could be done in a policy and procedure bylaw, which would set fees for zoning and subdividing requests.

He said, "fairly hefty fees" would help eliminate "sledgehammer" applications that came in time and again from developers and other individuals.

He also suggested that a time limit should be laid down, restricting the frequency of the applications.

Council meeting Monday which set aside 8.6 acres of foreshore at Pilot Bay, on the east side of the park, and 4.5 acres at Taylor Bay, on the west side.

Walter explained that "foreshore" is the area of land "below" the surface of the water" from the high-side mark. At Taylor Bay the area extends out 500 feet from the

Bay the area extends out 800 feet. The government will have control over the entire 13.1 acres in the water as well as the three-acre parkland.

He said if the government had simply added the 13.1 acres to the three-acre park people would not be allowed to collect shells and oysters at low-tide as the resources are protected by law in provincial parks.

"It's the first time we've established a recreation area instead of a park," said Walter.

Politics and Parks

Whether or not we owe the recent announcements of new parks to the exigencies of Social Credit candidates faced with the problem of getting re-elected, it is nevertheless gratifying to hear of such plans for extended recreational areas. The latest announcement, emanating from Mr. Herbert Bruch, the incumbent Social Credit candidate in Esquimalt riding, establishes the Sooke potholes area as a permanent provincial park of 6.8 acres to be known as the Devil's Potholes Park.

The potholes and the Sooke River pools below them have long been a great attraction to swimmers and picnickers of the lower Island and it is good to know that their use will now be official and lasting. In addition, there are plans to add further riverfront property above and downstream from the new parkland, since these properties are being offered for sale. If the additions can be satisfactorily completed there will be a fine public asset of several hundred acres. One of the advantages of park status will be that badly needed parking space can be created and the pollution of unorganized picnic grounds can be cleared up.

One aspect which did not receive much explanation in the candidate's announcement was the fact that the 6.8 acres were obtained in trade from a private company. Parklands gained by trading other properties or timber rights have not proved to be very attractive bargains in this province. In fact, some very expensive parklands have been acquired in this way.

It will be interesting to hear from Mr. Bruch just what the public is paying in the form of a trade for the welcome addition of the Sooke River property to our parks system. It's important to know what we've given for what we've gained.

Inequality Under the Law

Justice Minister Otto Lang brought up again the problem of inequality before the court in his remarks to a Canadian judicial seminar in Halifax.

"Surely it cannot be said," the minister remarked, "that equality exists when a great percentage of defendants appearing in our criminal courts do not have counsel because it is too costly. In civil cases too, our proud claim of equality before the law must seem hypocritical to the poor plaintiff or poor defendant who cannot afford to pursue his rights."

The case has been stated before, but it gains strength when the federal cabinet minister makes it. And it is gratifying to hear his announcement that Ottawa plans to discuss with the provinces the provision of legal aid to those who need it.

We hear, from time to time, of activities by various legal agencies to furnish this type of service. In some centres at least, barristers make a considerable effort to overcome the automatic discrimination which is imposed on the individual too poor to engage professional help. But as Mr. Lang points out, such assistance is far from universally available to Canadians. Some obviously are handicapped when they appear in court, either criminal or civil.

In recent times Ottawa has moved to ease the position of the economically under-privileged by amending definitions of vagrancy and in expanding the discretion of law enforcement officers in such matters as bail. Authorities might also investigate the apparent discrimination which exists in a case where judgment involves a jail term for the convicted person who cannot pay a fine.

The task of removing inequalities will be difficult. It is gratifying, nevertheless, to find Ottawa looking beyond the rhetoric that, like ivy, obscures the actual structure of the law in too many instances. Mr. Lang has performed a service by trimming away at least some accustomed legal growth to reveal flaws.

To make their claim plausible, they have to ignore the points actually made in the peace offer of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the South and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam in the North. Indeed, they try to pretend that the first of these does not exist.

What these two patriot governments ask as a basis for peace is a caretaker government in Saigon comprising representatives of all the political, social and religious tendencies in the South. To ensure its democracy, they ask that this government contain:

1) Delegates from the PRG chosen by the PRG.
2) Delegates from the present Saigon government — excluding Thieu — chosen by that government.
3) Delegates from home or abroad acceptable to both sides.

Of the three equal groups of delegates, only those chosen by the PRG could include any Communists, and while the PRG does have Communist members, they are in a minority. Supposing the PRG sent half-Communist delegates, then out of a total of 54 delegates, nine would be Communist — that is 17 per cent fewer than a fifth of the total number composing the caretaker government.

Nixon and his clique know this. Whatever they are fighting for, it is not to prevent their opponents from forcing a Communist government on the South. — Frances Wilcox, 820 Cook St.

Chile Profits

In my view the article "Business better than ever" is a very frightening example of the power of a conglomerate with tentacles extending all over the world and controlled by just a few, very powerful men. Still we have the gall to criticize dictatorship.

This article was taken from the London Observer which is by no means a left-wing organ. A great howl goes up when the Russians invade Hungary and Czechoslovakia in order to protect their flanks but when action is taken in Chile and other countries in the quest of profits one does not hear any protest from the so-called "free world."

The ITT claims it has an investment of $153 million in the telephone company in Chile but it would be interesting to know how much of this amount was actually generated from profits in Chile and how much was the actual initial investment of ITT in that country. Of course one will never get these figures.

I believe in free enterprise when it is free and enterprise but not according to the rules of the conglomerates. — M. P. B. Wixson, 318-680 Poplar Avenue.

Right to Vote

This letter is a plea for establishment of an election season (e.g. September 15 to June 15) which would prevent governments from exploiting their powers to disenfranchise significant segments of the population.

I am a young voter (20) and I am lucky that I am able to register (in the four or five short days possible) and also be present on the August 30 election date. But what of those who are absent during one of these periods? There are many people who take their holidays in the last week of July and the first of August. That prevents them from voting unless they are already registered. And they certainly didn't have enough notice to be able to postpone their vacations. Was this an accident?

A winter election season would ensure that more people are afforded their right as citizens to vote for the party of their choice. — Voter.

Any time our provincial government grants some help to a section of the population of this fair province, any time that our provincial government announces some excellent programs which defy adverse criticism, we hear the alarm trite accusations of "propaganda" and "vote-getting".

How many of these promises would materialize, even admitting that they are made in good faith and with the earnest intention to keep them?

History

So Derril Warren is going to lead the Conservatives out of the wilderness — just as Davie Fulton was going to do six years ago!

No doubt a few old Tories who have voted Social Credit in recent years because the Conservative plight is so hopeless are toying with the idea of going Conservative now — chiefly because of the Tory win in Alberta. There is a grave difference:

In Alberta the Conservatives were the official opposition throughout much of the thirty-five years of the Social Credit regime. In B.C. the opposition has been CCF-NDP for about thirty years — both before and during the Social Credit regime.

In all the changes of government across Canada in recent years, both federal and provincial, there hasn't been one instance where a party has come

MAURICE WESTERN

Like an Old Movie—Familiar

OTTAWA — The steel story is developing like an old movie, although not one with attractive features for the captive audience.

To the surprise of no one familiar with the general plot, the word is out that selective steel price increases in the order of five per cent are now in prospect.

For the benefit of any who may have slept through earlier chapters the chronology is roughly as follows:

In October 1969, the Steel Company of Canada announced its second round of price increases in that year. They amounted to six per cent. There was a background of strikes and a wage-fringe benefit settlement involving increased labor costs per man-hour of approximately 30 per cent over three years.

Outcry in House

The outcry over increased prices was reflected in the House of Commons. Tommy Douglas led the attack. He did not dwell on the wage settlement although he did note that union leaders had disclaimed responsibility for higher steel prices. He emphasized, quite correctly, that the action taken by the companies would have a multiplier effect in the economy. Mr. Douglas linked the increases with others in oil and automobile.

"Surely," he protested, "the public ought to know whether the financial position of these companies makes it necessary for them to increase their prices or whether they are merely taking advantage of an inflationary psychology to pick the pockets of the public."

Mr. Douglas was unhappy about the government's response.

"All he (Mr. Basford) is doing now is to say: Boys, you are pushing things too far. It is like catching somebody who has picked your pocket, taken $100, and then sions; they were not consistent with general price stability. "It has ... been found that these wage and other cost increases are being passed on to steel consumers."

... no protest

With the contracts approaching termination this year, wage negotiations proceeded with the usual background rumors of threatened strikes. Then on Friday, July 28, newspapers carried stories of a three year wage and benefit package of $142½ an hour, hailed as the biggest ever negotiated at the Steel Company of Canada.

The initial reaction of union stewards was to reject the package. Other union leaders took a different view and they prevailed. Ronald Tippler, president of Local 1005, was quoted as saying: "Nobody needs to be ashamed of this contract. The guys in the plant are pretty smart individually and I'm sure they'll accept it."

Everyone was happy. To the relief of both management and unions, another strike had been averted. There was no comment from government. One searched the newspapers in vain for any protest by Mr. Douglas or any of his colleagues in the NDP.

It often happens with old movies, however, that the action may drag a bit in the middle; then suddenly the tempo increases. After the tedium of negotiations, a mere week had elapsed between the happy announcement of the glorious wage settlement and the first intimations that Stelco prices are to rise selectively, followed by those of Algoma and Dominion Foundries as they fall into line with the wage and price leader. Was this an accident?

A winter election season would ensure that more people are afforded their right as citizens to vote for the party of their choice. — Voter.

Like an old movie, it is very familiar. No restraint on the side of the unions; no guts on the side of management. This is the perfect formula for inflation and, as usual, it is the public that pays.

viewpointThe New Barbarians

By EDWARD P. MORGAN

(Morgan is a news commentator for the ABC television network. He wrote this for The Progressive.)

Americans claim to be a peace-loving people but when we travel we leave ruins in our wake to rival a battlefield. The sheer, wanton vandalism perfected by the American tourist and perpetuated world-wide threatens to make the depredations of Attila the Hun and the Visigoths who beat him look like the tidy good turns of Boy Scouts on Earth Day.

We are utterly savage in our depredations and destruction of memorials, shrines, in o u n i n g s , seashores, forests, rivers, lakes, national parks, hotel lobbies and even rest rooms.

What in the world is the matter with us? What causes us to do these coddish things? Where are our manners?

The new John F. Kennedy Centre for the Performing Arts in Washington had to be closed for a period to visitors (except ticket-holders for theatre performances) until new precautions could be taken to prevent the vast marble building from being stolen away, piecemeal.

Even as it is, the memorial to President Kennedy will never be the same. People carved huge chunks out of carpets and draperies, snatched pictures off the walls, the brass and marble handles off wash basin faucets. One matron, caught in the act, reared up self-righteously and snapped to the guard, "I'm a taxpayer, you know."

After a recent rock concert at the JFK Centre, more than 100 crystals were counted missing from a chandelier in a men's room. Perhaps the men's room shouldn't have had a chandelier, but that's not the point.

The point is that this burglary is going on everywhere.

In an article in the spring issue of the magazine, Travel and Leisure, author John Keats concedes that our British cousins are guilty too. "The German yields to no one when it comes to oiliness, nor is the Belgian far behind. But American tourists are the worst of all," Keats writes, "because they are particularly tactless, tasteless and loudmouthed, and because there are so many of them and their numbers are increasing."

In Yellowstone Park, which is celebrating its 100th anniversary, several geysers and the Morning Glory Pool have been ruined by tourists clogging them with coins, stones and chunks of wood. The

a new prayer invoking God's protection against the scourge of western invaders. To which author Keats says "amen."

But I still want to know why with all our bounty we Americans have become such barbarians.

The Superbug Is Coming

Are you ready for a malaria-bearing mosquito which can only be killed by a brick?

A study by U.S. entomologist Richard Garcia, published in the latest issue of Environment Magazine, points to a new crisis in the affairs of America and the world. The crisis centers around mosquitoes which have become immune to every known insecticide. They are showing up in California, where, for the first time in the 25-year history of spraying, a breed of mosquitoes has emerged which defies every chemical form of control.

The breed in question, Aedes nigromaculatus, does not itself spread malaria. Or at least it isn't directly associated with it. However, it awaits only the introduction of a disease known as Venezuelan equine encephalitis in order for this particular type of mosquito to begin spreading death.

It so happens that the Venezuelan equine encephalitis virus entered Texas last summer, spreading rapidly across that state. It is only a matter of time before the virus reaches California.

What can be done to control it remains to be seen. For Aedes nigromaculatus appears to have made a sort of evolutionary breakthrough.

It is a breakthrough which has long been expected. Rachel Carson was sounding the warning back in the Dawn Ages.

Sooner or later, the superbugs will be upon us.

The problem with mosquitoes is that they go through generations like a speed reader skimming the Old Testament. As many as 15 or 20 generations of mosquitoes can be produced over a five-month period.

To this new breed of "superior" mosquito, ancient weapons like DDT are about as lethal as water. The California strain of mosquito was among the first to experience large-scale chemical spraying back in the forties. They are, in this sense, "ahead" of most mosquitoes on Planet Earth.

Where they have gone, the others soon enough will follow. Which poses a tremendous threat in those areas of the world where malaria-control programs have been introduced. The mosquitoes being killed by DDT in places like Borneo and Sri Lanka today will have acquired California-type immunity probably within less than ten years. At that point, well, so much for malaria control.

Malaria, temporarily routed by DDT, can be expected to stage a terrifying comeback. And—thanks to the initial effectiveness of DDT—there will be that many more people around, ripe for slaughter.

A pattern emerged in California which entomologist Garcia warns "will occur throughout the world" as genetic resistance to insecticides rises.

DDT was introduced in the Central Valley of California in 1946. Within three years, mosquitoes had developed an immunity to the stuff. So malathion was introduced. Soon enough, the mosquitoes were on the upsurge again. Then came methyl parathion. Same result. Dursban was tried. E.P.M. Abate. Vapona. Dibrom.

Not only did the mosquitoes become genetically resistant to each of these increasingly potent poisons, but they also acquired "multi-resistance." They could shake off the effects of combinations of poisons as well.

Last year, a California mosquito-control program manager was forced to admit that after 25 years of spraying, the mosquitoes were tougher and more numerous than ever.

In other words, the chemical abatement programs have finally peaked. There is only so much poison you can throw at the bugs before the levels of toxicity get so high that you are starting to hurt your own kind more than the enemy. And just as the chemical means of attack exhaust themselves, breeds of mosquitoes emerge which are hundreds, if not thousands of times as hard to kill as the ones you started off fighting.

It is apparently not enough that technology in the hands of short-sighted idiots has given birth to the H-bomb. Now it has produced the first generation of superbugs. In the end, who is to say which will be the deadliest killer of humankind?

You'll need a brick to kill him.

China Seeks a National Spoken Language

By ERIC CHOU
The Manchester Guardian

The possibility of romanizing the Chinese language seems to have recently aroused interest in the western world, especially since Kuo Mo-jo, president of the Chinese Academy of Sciences, wrote in the April edition of Peking's Red Banner magazine that there was a plan to "replace the Chinese characters with the Roman letters."

But can this aim be achieved in the foreseeable future? If one examines various aspects of the language reform in China objectively, the answer must be "no."

Different from most modern languages, Chinese is ideographic, pictorial and monosyllabic. More than 40,000 Chinese characters form the total vocabulary which has been in use over the past 4,000 years. Each character consists of radicals denoting pronunciation and meaning respectively. To write a Chinese character is like drawing a miniature picture; putting dots, strokes and lines together in the traditionally symmetrical way.

To speak Chinese means that one has to utter a vast number of monosyllables in the right order, coherently and comprehensively. It must be pointed out, however, that the more difficult part of spoken Chinese lies in its tonal differences. In mandarin (the official spoken language) alone there are four tones, which is confusing enough. Then there are eight tones in the Fukienese dialect and nine in Cantonese, not to mention many other dialects spoken by people in various parts of China.

Fortunately for the Chinese, there is only one written language. Throughout this vast country, every character is written in the same way. Thus, people several thousand miles apart have a common means of communication. But difficulty arises when it comes to the spoken language. Diversified dialects cause the Chinese to pronounce the same word completely differently, as different as, say, the French and English.

This is the paramount obstacle which is still to be overcome before Chinese can be romanized. Take the name of Chairman Mao, for instance. In written Chinese, it consists of three characters which are visually the same to any literate Chinese. Once the leader's name is romanized, it all depends on the dialect used by the person who is doing the actual romanization. In mandarin his name will be the familiar Mao Tse-tung. But in Fukienese it will be Mor Dieh-doong while in Cantonese it becomes Moo Chak-tong. As there can only be one "Great Helmsman" in China, Chairman Mao would certainly not enjoy having a second or third name to share his omnipotent authority, even though is merely a kind of optical illusion.

Symbols the same but pronunciation varies widely

Tonal difference may be a lesser problem in view of romanization. Still, it has to be dealt with carefully. For instance, the two roman letters "ma" mean "mother" when pronounced in the first tone, "jute" in the second tone, "horse" in the third tone and "curse" in the fourth tone. A slur of the tongue can be very embarrassing, especially for a foreigner.

In fact, the unification of the spoken language has always been an aim for both Nationalist and Communist guide to pronunciation.

When Mao Tse-tung came to power in 1949, a language reform committee, headed by Wu Yu-chang, a veteran communist, was formed under the central government. In the early 1950s the main concern of this committee was still to master this first group of simplified characters, the committee introduced others. Up to now, about 5,000 Chinese characters have been simplified by Peking's language reform. This process has taken about 20 years.

Later on, in co-operation with the program aimed at wiping out illiteracy, the language reform committee undertook a new venture. In the first stage it chose some 2,000 characters which were common in daily usage and simplified their written form by reducing or omitting some of the necessary dots, lines, or strokes.

Backed by the party and the government, these simplified characters gradually replaced the original ones in writing and printing. But in pronunciation, they remained the same. When people began to master this first group of simplified characters, the committee introduced others. Up to now, about 5,000 Chinese characters have been simplified by Peking's language reform. This process has taken about 20 years.

At this rate, it could take another 140 years to simplify the remaining 35,000 characters less commonly used than those already simplified. And before the romanization program could be fully implemented a requirement would be that China's 750 million people would have to speak one unified language.

Even with the present political system in China, the process of unifying the spoken language will be a long one.

The Fountain of Youth Business

By CHARLES FOLEY
The London Observer

LOS ANGELES — The American search for the Fountain of Youth has created a new major industry—rejuvenation; and nowhere is business brisker than in California. A record quarter of a million Americans underwent cosmetic plastic surgery last year, a figure which included a notable increase in the number of men seeking to stay young in looks.

It seems that simply by looking more youthful, you can stay young in heart: a new nose, say the plastic surgeons, can change your entire outlook on life; a new head of hair, say the trichologists, will do no less; and the $50-a-day "fat farms" promise that through regression will come salvation.

"We call it happiness surgery," says Dr. Byland Hardin, a Beverly Hills plastic surgeon. "It has ceased to be freaky. Today it's simply a plantation of a silicone cushion between breast and chest cost $1,500.

SEN. PROXIMIRE

The breast implant is rapidly overtaking the nose job as the most common cosmetic surgery operation and its price is rising accordingly. Besides the silicone-cushion technique, in which a covered pad is attached to the chest wall, there is the wholly illegal method of direct liquid silicone injections.

It is illegal because it is dangerous, preventing detection of breast tumors and requiring very delicate application if the treatment is to be successful. All too often, quacks give overlarge injections too frequently, using low-quality silicone since they are unable to obtain the high-grade material legally available to the tiny handful of practitioners licensed to use it for experimental purposes.

Most doctors recommend no more than a small increase by the implant method—say one bra-size. "And they're often astonished by the bus band's ideas of what is desired."

"They attack me for seeking publicity," he says. "But what's wrong with that? I'm well-known because I'm good, and they're not."

If Dr. Wagner is the King of Cosmetic Surgery, as he boasts, the most eminent of U.S. trichologists (hair experts) is Dr. Norman Orentreich, who invented the hair-transplant technique which is all the rage today. His method has given new hair and hope to thousands, from Frank Sinatra to Senator William Proxmire, the Wisconsin Democrat who, at 57, first had the pouches under his eyes removed by surgery, then went on to receive some 200 plugs of hair—about 3,000 individual shafts—at a cost of $1,500.

The process consists of minuscule hole-boring operations performed by an instrument known to the trade as "the cookie-cutter" (a 5/32nds of an inch circular punch); into the holes it makes are planted tiny plugs of hair-bearing scalp. In 10 to 20 weeks these sprout new hair; it takes about a year to grow anything resembling "a good head of hair."

Perhaps the most flourishing section of the rejuvenation industry is that which promises simply to reduce weight: the "fat farm," where affluent socialites and overweight movie and TV actors pay $750 a week to refurbish fading charms. One of California's most famous is the "Golden Door" at Escondido, near San Diego, a private retreat of considerable opulence where an exclusive 20 clients at a time are pampered, drilled and discreetly starved by 60 highly-trained employees. A steady regimen of exercise and massage, facials and saunas is supplemented by meals that never exceed 1,000 calories a day.

B.C. Will Only Pay Planting Costs GOV'T PAYS BILLS

SURREY (CP) — Ray Wiliston, provincial minister of lands, forests and water resources, has promised an immediate assessment of flood damage to farms in the Surrey and Nicomekl River valleys.

Wiliston, who is also chairman of the cabinet's disaster relief committee, toured several farms in the area Wednesday and met about 50 vegetable farmers in Cloverdale.

He told the farmers that assessors would begin work in the area as soon as they finished their estimate of flood damage in the Simalkwa Valley.

He warned, however, that any claims from the farmers would be for the cost of planting crops rather than payment for crop losses.

George Rush, manager of the Cloverdale Lettuce and Vegetable Co-op, told Wiliston the farmers wanted $15.7 million for their losses this spring.

Mac Singh, spokesman for the farmers, asked the minister what the government intended to do to retain the valley as farmland. He said the flooding is an annual problem.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A man who said he passed a worthless cheque to get back to Victoria to face another charge of false pretences was sentenced to three months Wednesday. The sentence will be served concurrently with a five-month term he is serving on the original charge.

Judge William Ostler told William Edward Holland, now at the Vancouver Island Regional Correctional Centre, that his story was absurd.

"Even if it's true, it's absurd."

"The incredible thing is," said Ostler, "I believe him . . ."

Holland wrote a cheque for $23.09 at a clothing store in Chilliwack May 25 for a pantsuit which he returned the next day for cash.

The cheque was written on a bank account that had never had any money deposited.

Holland told the court he needed the money to get back to Victoria to face the earlier, similar charges.

"This kind of simple thinking is just not good enough," Ostler said.

Norma Lisa Allen, 36, of 107 Government St., was fined $50 for stealing three articles of clothing from the ladies wear department of Simpson Sears on July 10.

Ostler praised the woman for her fight against drug addiction.

In imposing the fine, he said he was convinced society would gain more if she remained employed and out of prison.

James Worthington Whaley, 19, of 6470 S.W. Capital Highway, Seattle, Washington, was fined $100 for possession of a small quantity of marijuana and $250 for "theft of telecommunications services."

Whaley, here off holidays with his parents, was arrested after he showed a friend how to make long distance phone calls using a phone credit number. He and his companion made three long distance calls from a phone booth in Oak Bay worth 65 cents.

While lodged in cells later Aug. 9 for the calls he dropped a hashish pipe. A police search revealed a small quantity of marijuana.

In traffic court Judge Edmund Jorre de St. Jorre fined Patricia Elaine Bianchi, 30, of 350 West Bay Terrace, $75 for driving with a blood-alcohol reading of .16 per cent at 10:30 p.m. June 29.

She was involved in a slight accident on the parking lot of the Six Mile House in Colwood.

and some farmers are selling out in frustration.

He said the farmers have been waiting for 10 years for something to be done while governments "dilly-dallied" over feasibility studies.

If the drainage and flood problem is solved, he added, "you would see produce prices in Vancouver drop dramatically."

Banks Aiding Foreign Firms In Takeovers of Companies

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Otto Jelinek almost sold his skate-making firm to a United States company but changed his mind when the bank that turned him down for a loan agreed to lend money to the U.S. firm wanting to buy.

Mr. Jelinek, an Olympic medallist, says he is convinced the banks are major factors in financing foreign takeovers but there are conflicting interpretations of statistics on the subject.

Otto and Marie Jelinek, following their gold-medal performance in the pairs figure skating event in the 1962 Olympics, earned their nest eggs with the Ice Capades. Most of the money was made in the U.S. but they returned to Canada.

Otto invested in skating and in three years Canadian Skate Industries grew from two employees to 50 and from $300,000 in annual sales to $2 million.

By early 1972, the company had more than $4 million in advance orders and a factory that was too small. He needed $500,000 to expand, so he went to a bank.

"They were willing to lend me the money all right, but only if I could put up collateral worth four times the loan."

"We could either expand or go under, and the only way to expand was to get taken over by an American firm."

Servitronics Inc., a medium-sized toy manufacturer based in Buffalo, N.Y., offered to buy Canadian Skate Industries for a substantial figure and the offer was accepted.

ABLE TO HANG ON

But, before the deal was completed, Mr. Jelinek discovered the source of Servitronics financing and he learned that the loss of another Canadian company was of concern to some people with money to lend.

"The only reason I was able to hang on is that I am well known. I have access to people. How about all the small Canadian business? Nobody even heard of it? What happens to them?"

In addition to his connections with sports, Mr. Jelinek is developing political connections and plans to be a Progressive Conservative candidate in a Toronto riding in the next federal election.

"Before we stop foreign takeovers, we have to change the whole damn banking system," he says.

F. H. McNeil, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association and executive vice-president of the Bank of Montreal, says it would be difficult to design legislation to stop bank money being used for takeovers of Canadian firms by foreign companies.

"Suppose an American company comes to us for a loan to buy inventory, but at the same time uses its own reserves to take over a Canadian company. Have we financed the takeover? How do you trace each dollar to find out?"

He says figures from the foreign ownership report prepared under the direction of Revenue Minister Herb Gray indicate that only nine percent of the Canadian money available to foreign firms for takeovers came from banks. But this money is also available for other purposes, such as internal expansion, and the report does not say how the money was spent.

STUDIED SUBSIDIARIES

The department of industry trade and commerce has done a study on foreign subsidiaries operating in Canada between 1964 and 1969. This study produced a figure called net external funds and Abraham Rotstein, a Toronto economist, says this is "essentially the money available for takeovers and expansion." Mr. Rotstein also is managing editor of Canadian Forum, which published a leaked version of the Gray report.

The trade department's study indicated that about 58 per cent of the money available for takeovers and expansion came from banks. Again, there are no details on exactly how much bank financing was for takeovers.

The last thorough study of the banking system was done by the Royal Commission on Banking and Finance in 1964. It found that one third of Canadian-controlled companies with assets of less than $1 million had inadequate supplies of long-term capital while only one of 29 foreign owned firms was in this position.

The commission report indicates that the foreign firms have an advantage because of superior credit ratings of larger foreign parents.

Mr. McNeil says it is not up to the banks to distinguish between foreign and domestic borrowers.

"We are trustees for the people who put their money in our banks and the primary consideration is always the question of risk."

The number of tractors in 1971, at 597,000, was practically unchanged from 1966, but the percentage of farms with tractors increased to 88 per cent from 85 per cent and the average number of tractors rose to 1.9 per farm from 1.6 in 1966.

Grain combines decreased to 163,000 from 170,000 five years earlier, but the proportion of farms with combines increased to 41 per cent in 1971 from 37 per cent in 1966.

The census figures also indicate a shift to beef from dairy production on a number of farms. Last year, the number of milking machines had dropped to 81,000 from 103,000 in 1966.

OAK BAY P.C. ELECTION CORNER

G. SCOTT WALLACE

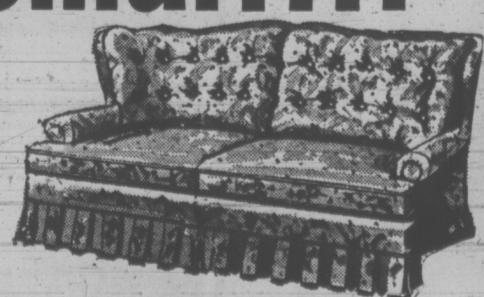

It is only right that voters should know something of the background and previous experience of the candidate seeking their vote. This candidate was born in Leven, Fife, Scotland, on Aug. 9th, 1929, the last of five children, father a druggist, owning his own small business. Educated at Leven Junior Secondary and Buckhaven High Schools, medical education at Edinburgh graduating 1952. Post graduate training at Edinburgh Royal Infirmary and English Hospitals for two years. Three years general practice, Ruislip, Middlesex, England. Immigrated to Canada 1957, interning at Sarnia General Hospital. Four years in solo general practice in New Liskeard, Ont., receiving the 1961 Citizen of the Year Award for services to the local community. Moved to Victoria 1961, entered general practice. Alderman on Oak Bay Council 1967 to 1969. Served on various committees of the Victoria Medical Society and as Director on Board of B.C. Medical Association. Elected as Social Credit M.L.A. 1969. Resigned from Government in Aug. 1971, to sit as Independent. Joined the Progressive Conservative Party of British Columbia in Jan. 1972, under leadership of Derril Warren. Married to Registered Nurse, with family of four daughters and one son. Hobbies, golf and reading. It has always been my conviction that an elected representative must place his loyalty to the people he represents above his loyalty to any political party. In the past I have tried to serve the people of Oak Bay on that basis and if re-elected as a Progressive Conservative I do not propose to change this basic attitude. My campaign will be a positive one, emphasizing the policies and plans which I believe will improve the quality of life for all citizens in British Columbia. It is my intention to meet as many voters personally as possible and to this end I am now in the process of knocking on many Oak Bay doors. Campaign Headquarters are at 2041 Oak Bay Ave., 592-2451. Anyone wishing to support my campaign is most welcome.

IT

Record earnings and sales for both the second quarter and first half of 1972 are reported by International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

Second-quarter income, before an extraordinary income item, was $121.8 million, equal to 99 cents a share, compared with $110 million, or 90 cents a share, in the second quarter of 1971.

The extraordinary income was a gain of $22.8 million, equal to 18 cents a share, from the sale of a 23-per-cent interest in Avco Inc., which is to be divested by ITT under a consent decree with the U.S. government.

Sales and revenues for the latest quarter rose to $2.1 billion, up 15 per cent over the figure of $1.8 billion reported for the comparable period a year ago.

Simpsons

Simpsons Ltd. and Simpsons-Sears Ltd. both report increases of more than 18 per cent in sales during the first half of their current fiscal years.

Simpsons Ltd. reported net earnings before extraordinary items of $5,846,000 or 38.1 cents a share for the six months to July 5 compared with $4,045,478 or 26.5 cents a share for the same period of the previous fiscal year. The company had extraordinary earnings to increase net profit to $7,245,188 or 47.3 cents a share for the first half of the current year.

Simpsons-Sears' net earnings for the six month period, totalled $7,216,000 or 45 cents a share during the current fiscal year and $5,518,000 or 35 cents a share during the previous fiscal year.

Simpsons Ltd. and Sears Roebuck and Co. each owns 50 per cent of the voting shares of Simpsons-Sears.

Simpsons Ltd. had six-month sales of $164,565,619 this year and $142,052,418 last year.

Thomson

Thomson Newspapers Ltd. reports it plans to split its common shares on a three-for-one basis, subject to approval at a shareholders' meeting to be called later.

At the same time, the company announced earnings for the first six months of 1972 of $3,392,700, compared with $7,964,120 in the similar period in 1971.

The earnings figures exclude extraordinary income in the first six months of this year of $778,499, and extraordinary income of $25,922 in the similar period a year ago.

Net sales for the six months totalled $66,002,215 in 1972, compared with $60,670,028 in the similar 1971 period.

Lockheed

Lockheed Aircraft Corporation reports net earnings of $7.4 million or 65 cents a share for the second quarter of 1972.

The net included $4.2 million in earnings from operations and $3.2 million of extraordinary income from sale of an property near Dawsonville, Ga., and a fabrication plant at Chattanooga, Tenn.

The net from operations, 37 cents a share, was up from first quarter earnings of $3.4 million or 30 cents a share and from 1971 second quarter earnings which were $3 million or 26 cents a share.

Second quarter 1972 earnings marked the aerospace firms' sixth consecutive profitable quarter, all of which have been affected by the write-off of general and administrative expense on the new Litton Tristar commercial transport and by interest costs.

Petrofina

Petrofina, Canada reports first half net income of $9,629,000 or 96 cents a share, compared with $7,838,000 or 79 cents a share for the corresponding period in 1971.

Petrofina's net earnings for the first half of this year increased by 20.7 per cent over the figure for the comparable period a year ago.

OUTDOORS barry thornton

Preparation Is Important For Good Action Pictures

Certainly some of my greatest pleasures in the outdoors have come from opportunities to preserve highlights on film. Photography can provide many hours of enjoyment.

Color photography provides a richness that cannot be excelled by black-and-white pictures. However, black-and-white does permit more scope, particularly for action photos.

Action shots are without a doubt the most difficult to capture because in nature movement is almost foreign. But, when the opportunity presents itself, you must be ready.

Being ready, which means having your camera all set to take shots, is the major difference between having those treasured photos and those you will only show to close friends with muddled apologies.

Working with a good 35mm camera, I have found that Kodak Tri-X Pan film is excellent for outdoor shots. Tri-X is a fast black and white film with an ASA setting of 400, three times the setting of regular film. This film will allow for indoor pictures without artificial light — the normal house lights being sufficient for shutter speeds of 1/25th second. The deep forests on Vancouver Island demand such a film because of the dark shadows usually prevailing, even during sunny days.

The faster shutter speeds, however, do force a greater aperture opening with the result that the background goes out of focus. The only solution to this is a higher F-stop or aperture setting with the resulting loss of shutter speed. However, when taking action shots it is the subject that is important and not the background. Therefore, rarely will I consider background and I will sacrifice this for the specific subject that I am shooting.

The attempt to put too much into a photo is probably the most common error made. If you are taking wildlife photos, concentrate yourself and your camera on that specific subject only.

Its major advantage, however, lies in the fast shutter speeds it allows during daylight hours. And it is shutter speed that is essential for capturing action.

As a general rule, I will not take a daylight shot at a speed of less than 250th of a second and I prefer to start working on action pictures at twice that speed, progressing to a shutter time of 1,000th of a second.

The real solution to this is the purchase of a telephoto extension for your camera. A telephoto lens will give you close-up pictures impossible to get otherwise. They will also open a totally new field of photo work unbelievable until experienced.

Using a telephoto lens also demands a faster film because of the obvious light capturing limitations of the extension to your camera. The maximum any photographer should go for hand held telephoto work is 400mm. However, flexibility is possible through the use of an inexpensive two-power attachment, which can connect with your regular 35mm lens or with a 200mm telephoto attachment. I have found this combination unbeatable.

Focus is critical with telephoto attachments and must be carefully set. A fast shutter speed is also very essential to halt any body movement of the photographer.

Also available for those who own a spotting scope are attachments for good 35mm cameras. Spotting scopes are available from 20 to 60 power and through the use of a tripod can take very effective photographs of wildlife subjects impossible to capture with regular telephoto attachments.

Island Anglers In Derby Chase

Boat traffic will probably be heavy this weekend around Cowichan Bay and Saanich Inlet.

The reason? This year the annual B.C. Salmon Derby, which offers a first prize of $25,000, has been expanded to include that portion of Vancouver Island waters.

Fishing boundaries for Island anglers competing in the derby are an imaginary line between Separation Point and Musgrave Point on the north and another line between Moses Point and Cape Kepel on the east.

Weigh-in stations will be located at Angler's Anchorage Marina in Brentwood Bay and Sportsmans Centre Marina in Cowichan Bay. In addition, derby representative will be posted at Hall's Boathouse.

Tickets for the derby, which lasts from dawn until 7 p.m. Saturday and dawn until 6 p.m. Sunday, cost $10 per rod and are available from Super-Valu Stores and Duncan Motorcycle Sales. From Friday on the tickets will be available at the two weigh-in stations and Halls.

SAILING AT KINGSTON

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Sailing events in the 1976 Olympic Games will be held in Lake Ontario, near Kingston. The Garden owns the basketball Knicks and the hockey Rangers, who play there.

A Garden official announced Tuesday that there had been discussions about moving to a proposed new sports complex in the New Jersey meadows, across the Hudson River.

Bremer's Appeal Fund: $2 in Dimes

MILWAUKEE — William Bremer, whose son Arthur was sentenced to 63 years in jail for the shooting of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, says he has only received $2 so far in response to an appeal for funds to fight his son's conviction.

Bremer said the $2, all in dimes, was contributed by neighbors. He also said he had received some crank mail which has made him angry and even more determined to raise money for the appeal.

WASHINGTON — The house internal security committee was called into closed session today to consider whether to subpoena actress Jane Fonda for questioning about her broadcasts beamed from Hanoi to U.S. troops in Southeast Asia.

Rep. Fletcher Thompson (R-Ga.), who has described Miss Fonda as "Hanoi Hanah," asked the committee to reopen its investigation of possible subversive activities.

CARACAS, Venezuela — Police have impounded 400 copies of the long-playing record The Pope Smokes Dope, on the grounds that it is disrespectful to the Roman Catholic Church.

The record produced by former Beatle John Lennon includes such phrases as "The Pope smokes weed while saying mass," and "Priests get drunk while the Pope says mass."

DONDON — Deborah Kerr, Scots-born star of many Hollywood movies, is returning to the London stage after an absence of 17 years; it was announced Wednesday.

Miss Kerr, 50, will open at the Lyric Theatre on Oct. 4 in a new play by Frank Harvey called The Day After the Fair.

VENICE — Princess Aspasia, 72, of Greece died in a Venice hospital this week following a heart attack.

She was the widow of King Alexander of Greece and the aunt of exiled King Constantine.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jim Powell found $1,100 in a file cabinet used at the Democratic national convention and apparently surmised that the debt-ridden Democratic party needed the money more than he did.

Powell returned the money by mail with "a short note written in long hand because I was out on a job and didn't have a chance to get it typed."

Carol Lottman, a democratic presidential campaign aide, returned Powell to thank him for returning the money. She said Sen. George S. McGovern "would write him personally as soon as possible to thank him too."

Powell found the money in the form of personal cheques and American express travellers' cheques in $10, $20 and $25 denominations. The cabinet was used by McGovern's staff at Miami Beach.

SANTA MONICA — Actor Tony Curtis has won temporary custody of two daughters, Alexandra, 8, and Allegra, 6, from their mother, German actress Christine Kaufman.

Curtis said in a complaint that the children were shuttled back and forth from country to country and were left with an assortment of governesses while in their mother's custody.

TORONTO — Douglas Blacklock of nearby Markham was fined $1,800 in provincial court Wednesday for selling furniture from his home by pretending the home and contents were personal possessions up for sale.

He pleaded guilty to nine counts under the Combines Investigation Act and was fined $200 on each count prosecuted by the federal consumer affairs department.

CALGARY — When Constable Joseph Sylvester reported for work Wednesday he wasn't wearing his police belt.

He also was without his gun, badge and handcuffs.

Police said thieves broke into his home Tuesday night in southeast Calgary while he drove his wife to work and took about $200 worth of police issued equipment, including two hand guns.

MOSCOW — Russians who brew "moonshine" liquor were warned in Pravda Wednesday that they face possible imprisonment if the law catches up with them. The Communist party daily newspaper cited the recent case of Valentina Semyonova, a villager in the Krashayorsk area of Siberia, who was sentenced to one year in prison for distilling her own vodka.

PARIS — Jacques Viot, 50, has been appointed as new French ambassador to Canada, replacing Pierre Straub; it was announced here Wednesday. Viot, currently head of personnel and administration at the Quai d'Orsay, seat of the French foreign ministry, has previously served in diplomatic posts in Britain and Morocco.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Cesar Enrique Sanchez, a native of Ecuador, became a U.S. citizen Wednesday and also picked up a new name.

The young soldier is scheduled for an assignment in Germany next week.

He said the name switch was for "personal reasons."

The new name: Kraywoski Dennis Savatki.

HOLLYWOOD — Former actor Tom Neal, 58, whose stormy career included a prison sentence for slaying his wife and a celebrated first fight with Franck Tone, died at his home here Monday. Authorities said they believed the death was from "natural causes."

PARIS — Jacques Viot, 50, has been appointed as new French ambassador to Canada, replacing Pierre Straub; it was announced here Wednesday. Viot, currently head of personnel and administration at the Quai d'Orsay, seat of the French foreign ministry, has previously served in diplomatic posts in Britain and Morocco.

SLUG FLOATING IN HIS BLOOD

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Juvenal Luis Pereira, in his early 20s, was hit by the bullet July 22, 1971, during celebrations in a Rio suburb following a Brazilian soccer victory. It hit in the thigh, but he said he felt only a burning sensation.

Indians Plan Tax Boycott

EDMONTON (CP) — The general assembly of the National Indian Brotherhood unanimously agreed Wednesday to encourage and assist provincial and territorial organizations to resist all forms of taxation.

But shortly after this expression of unanimity, Manitoba delegates walked out of the conference.

Delegates passed resolutions demanding the federal government suspend all tax collection procedures and assessments against Indians since the cabinet and the brotherhood's executive council discuss the issue.

Indians now receive federal tax exemption from income earned on reserves. There are no uniform regulations on sales tax exemptions in the provinces.

Tax resistance will be encouraged through notices of objection and court proceedings.

"If there are enough notices of objections, it will hopefully generate enough political pressure," said Bruce Fotheringham, a lawyer for the Federation of Saskatchewan Indians.

"If we strive to clog up the system we will create enough pressure so they will change the laws."

Brotherhood President George Manuel asked Manitoba to reconsider, saying: "The only way we can overcome our differences is to talk." But about an hour later the delegates checked out of their hotel, indicating they wouldn't be back for today's final session of the three-day meeting.

Anderson had mentioned responsibilities the group had in Manitoba, but Mr. Manuel suggested the action was prompted by the refusal of other delegations to support Manitoba on several issues.

Manuel said Manitoba delegates wanted some of the discussions to be held in private and they were not happy with a brotherhood committee established to discuss Indian affairs with the federal cabinet.

CANADIAN INDIANS TO SEEK UN SEAT

EDMONTON (CP) — The National Indian Brotherhood plans to seek membership in the United Nations as a non-government organization, president George Manuel said Wednesday. Manuel in presenting his annual report at the brotherhood's third general assembly said the world council of churches will aid in seeking the membership.

Manuel recommended the brotherhood establish a European office for fun-raising and to seek support for getting into the UN.

He also suggested the organization, which represents 270,000 Canadian Indians, organize a North American Indian conference on aboriginal rights.

Grain Sale Estimate Increased by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The agriculture department says the Soviet Union may buy between 250 million and 400 million bushels of U.S. wheat, as much as one-fourth of this year's crop.

Officials say a number of private companies are involved in transactions, including one whose Soviet sales operations are headed by a former U.S. assistant agriculture secretary.

Wheat market prices in the Midwest have risen sharply in recent days, reflecting rumors that a massive sale to Moscow is imminent. In Kansas City the price has climbed from $1.57 a bushel to $1.84.

If the big sale materializes, a 400-million-bushel transaction—and some sources say it could be even more—would be equal to nearly half the present U.S. wheat surplus and one-fourth of the 1972 crop, estimated at less than 1.6 billion bushels.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carroll Brumhaver said Wednesday in an interview that there has been tremendous demand for wheat in the market, presumably by private companies seeking grain for the Russians.

"We keep hearing eight to 10 million tons," about 296 million to 375 million bushels, Brumhaver said. "That's entirely possible. Whether it's more than that, I don't know."

One of the export firms involved is Continental Grain Co., New York, which recently hired former assistant secretary Clarence D. Palmy, Brumhaver's predecessor, to head its export sales operations for the Soviet market.

Palmy was closely involved in U.S.-Soviet negotiations earlier this year. He resigned shortly before President Nixon announced July 8 that the Soviet Union had agreed to buy at least $750 million worth of U.S. grain over the next three years.

Continental and another firm, Cargill, Inc., Minneapolis, sold nearly three million tons of livestock feed grain to the Soviet Union last year, the first U.S. grain sale to that country in nearly a decade.

Curbs Unnecessary

WINNIPEG (CP) — Federal Minister of State Patrick Mahoney Wednesday said Canada's economy is functioning well enough without wage and price controls.

The economy has performed "relatively well by any rational standard of measurement," the Calgary-South MP said.

Reviewing over-all 1971 price rises, Mahoney said: "Canada, without wage and price controls, achieved a 3.4 per cent performance, against a 4.6 per cent performance by the United States with controls from mid-August on."

Education 'Low'

EDMONTON (CP) — The educational level of Saskatchewan Indians is "startlingly low," says a report by the Federation of Saskatchewan Indians.

The report says communication problems are a major factor for Indian students leaving school. Parents who keep their children away from school to do household chores also are cited as a reason for the high number of Indian dropouts.

Land Rule Rapped

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP) — Saskatchewan government proposals to prevent Canadians living in other provinces from owning land in Saskatchewan should not be tolerated, Justice Minister Otto Lang said Wednesday.

Lang told a public meeting he is not opposed to limiting non-Canadian ownership of land, but the provincial government's attitude was contrary to the spirit of Canadian identity.

Saskatchewan's New Democratic Party government earlier this year proposed that only residents of the province be allowed to own farm land. Hearings on the proposal are being held now.

Port Assisted

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP) — Research efforts in the Northwest Passage for the shipping of Arctic oil may point the way to an extension of the shipping season at Manitoba's northern port of Churchill, Justice Minister Otto Lang said Wednesday.

Lang, minister in charge of the Canadian Wheat Board, told about 200 people at a public meeting that a longer season would immediately improve the chances for a million dollar investment in the port.

Hodgson said people in the North can't live under a glass and be "studied, mulled-over and debated."

He said he would like to see bold development of Canada's north similar to what he saw in a recent trip to Siberia, where, he said, the pace of development is tremendous.

He said Russia is building a

huge power project in Siberia even before it has customers for the power.

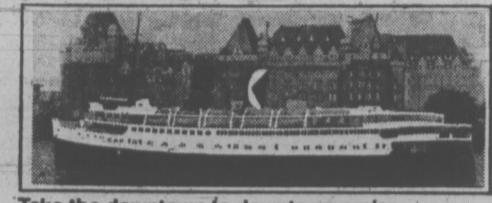

Hodgson said they told him: "We'll find the customers when it's finished."

Escaped in Car

COQUITLAM (CP) — Ted Eugene McConnell, 27, who was serving a nine-year term for armed robbery, escaped custody Wednesday. A B.C. penitentiary official said McConnell escaped from his escort while being taken to a Coquitlam doctor's office for medical tests. He was last seen getting into a car.

Japan Planned to Bomb N.Y.

TOKYO (AP) — Tamotsu Takahashi was a 22-year-old airman in the Imperial Japanese Army and his country was at war with the United States.

Even so, he stiffened when he learned about his assignment: Bomb New York.

It was Aug. 9, 1945—27 years ago—and Japan's military leaders realized they were fast losing the war. An atomic bomb annihilated Hiroshima three days earlier; a second devastated Nagasaki on Aug. 9.

Japan surrendered on Aug. 14. But, meanwhile, its leaders cast about desperately for ways to turn the tide of defeat. Takahashi's mission—a one-way suicidal flight—grew out of this desperation.

He was a wireless operator at an air base north of Tokyo. He was ordered to report to another base for a secret mission.

"I didn't know what it was all about, and my superiors said nothing," Takahashi recalls. But he gradually pieced together details:

Three long-range KI-77s, twin-engined planes developed for civilian use, were to be refitted. They would carry bombs, extra fuel and a crew of two: a pilot and a wireless operator-navigator. Takahashi was to be one of the latter. The KI-77 could fly at 275 miles an hour.

MADE ALLOWANCES

Five years earlier, a KI-77 and a crew of eight flew 10,200 miles non-stop on a circular route over Manchuria. This exceeded the 6,750 miles to New York, but allowances were being made for the heavy bomb load.

To guarantee success for the mission, Takahashi says, the planes were to climb to 29,500 feet where the eastbound jet stream would give them extra speed and distance.

Once over New York, the planes were to drop their bombs and then crash.

Takahashi, now a bank executive in Tokyo, says: "I'm happy the war ended before the mission could begin. I didn't even have time to be transferred to another base, and I never got to meet any of the others who were selected for the mission."

The Japanese defence agency says the war destroyed many important military documents, and, it has nothing in its archives on the mission. But it says it has heard it mentioned and some Japanese military leaders may well have planned it secretly.

Takahashi paid his first visit to New York last October.

SYRIA TO KEEP SOVIET AIDS

BEIRUT (AP) — President Hafez Assad says he will not order Soviet military advisers to leave Syria because "they are here for our own good," the leftist Beirut newspaper Al Anwar reported today.

In his first public comment since President Anwar Sadat ordered Russian advisers out of Egypt last month, Assad told an interviewer:

"We need the Soviet advisers. They will carry on their jobs here in accordance with our agreements between our two countries."

However, the 42-year-old Lieutenant-general who seized power in November, 1970, expressed hope that the Soviet Union "will react to our requests for arms in a better and more effective fashion."

Assad has been under pressure from domestic politicians closely supporting Egypt to allow the example of Syria's federation partner and send the Russians home.

However, the Soviet military presence in Syria is only about one-tenth of what it was in Egypt. Diplomats estimate there are 2,000 Russians stationed at various army bases throughout the country, and they do not have an operational role as they did in Egypt.

Terror Seen In Stage View Of Free Quebec

OTTAWA (CP) — A new play that grapples with questions of Quebec's future, written by a New Brunswick-born playwright and acted by a Toronto drama group, is getting its first public performance this week at the National Arts Centre.

Midway Priest by Louis Capson, 28, a member of the Creation 2 drama group of Toronto, is set in Quebec at some unspecified future time and what happens there is the dominant feature for Ottawa audiences during the four-night run that opened Tuesday.

Briefly, Quebec becomes independent of Canada and a power struggle breaks out between Fascist-style politicians and Marxist revolutionaries.

Depressing Play for English

Two Canadian Press writers—one an English-speaking reporter resident in Ontario, the other a Quebecer who writes in French—attended a performance. The impressions of these two Canadians of different cultural backgrounds were written without prior consultation.

By BOB DOUGLAS

Midway Priest is a depressing play for an English Canadian.

Louis Capson assumes that Quebec independence is inevitable and weaves a tale of terror about the lives of the citizens of the new Quebec.

Reason represented by Father Bergeron, is sacrificed in the consuming drive toward a strong, independent state.

Is there no hope for reasonable men? Is there no hope for a single Canadian nation including Quebec?

Mr. Capson's qualifications for making this political statement can be questioned. He

Rise and Fall of the People

By ELIE LALANDETTE

Midway Priest is a story partly of the rise and fall of the people of Quebec, partly of the internal enemies an independent Quebec would encounter, partly about a man who declines to be committed politically.

It also deals with the fears of western Quebecers in and around Hull that independence would sever their links with Ottawa.

The members of Creation 2 say it is not a political play, but in this projection of Quebec in the future, there are clear parallels with actual situations.

For example, the attitudes in the play of the people of Hull towards independence recall real-life anti-separatist attitudes dominant there in the 1970 provincial election.

Many western Quebecers work in Ottawa and their elected representative tells the president of newly-independent Quebec in the play they are not ready to leap into separation.

The president tells the representative to go home and

Millionaire Key in Dock Strife

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — A power-hungry, millionaire peer of 21 has emerged as an unexpected key figure in Britain's bitter, emotion-ridden dock strike.

Prime Minister Heath found himself publicly embarrassed over the case of Midland Cold Storage, the London container depot picketed by dockers for using non-dock labor and the flashpoint for the country-wide dispute.

Heath had described Midland in the Commons as a small firm, arbitrarily selected by the dockers as a target for wielding their strength.

It then was learned that, far from this, Midland is part of the meat empire of the Vestey family, which also owns docks and has been closing rundown wharves. This has led to dockers losing their jobs while the Vestey interests, headed by the third Baron Vestey, concentrate instead on inland situated container depots manned by non-dock labor to "stuff and strip" the ocean-going freight containers.

In dockers' eyes, therefore, the Vestneys are villains, although the number of men they have made redundant is only a fraction of the thousands of longshoremen's jobs that have withered away with the container revolution.

What enraged London dockers about Midland Cold Storage was that it opened at virtually the same time a Vestey wharf on the Thames closed and changed hands in a huge real estate deal involving a ($25 million) riverside hotel.

The man at the centre of the storm, Lord Vestey, is married to the daughter of a director of the Heinz canned food company. They have a baby daughter and live in a Victorian gothic mansion in the rolling Cotswold country. With a neat irony in the present situation, the Vestey motto is "From Labor Stability." The chief motif in the coat of arms is an iceberg rearing menacingly from the waves.

The Vestey empire, jointly controlled by the Baron and his cousin Edmund, 42, has been described as perhaps the largest private conglomerate in the country.

Meat is the basis of its wealth—the Vestey's, through family trusts, own cattle, lease 23,000 square miles of grazing land in Australia and South America, control slaughter houses, cold storage depots and nearly 50 ships which transport the meat to Europe and North America.

They also own Britain's largest meat wholesalers and largest retail butchers chain.

In all, they are reported to control nearly one-fifth of all

British lamb and beef imports.

Vestey interests also embrace wool mills in Yorkshire, textile factories in Hong Kong, grocery wholesalers and supermarkets, margarine manufacturers and leather firms.

The family's principal company, Union International, is reported to have a sales turnover of more than $750 million a year.

TWISTER LIFTS HUT; YOUNG GIRL CRUSHED

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)

A tornado killed a 14-year-old girl Wednesday and caused considerable damage to trees and property in a small area of Brookline.

Cynthia Cox of Weston was killed at the Longwood Cricket Club. Thomas Asleton, the club manager, said she was crushed by a small hut beside the swimming pool that was lifted 12 to 15 feet into the air by the winds.

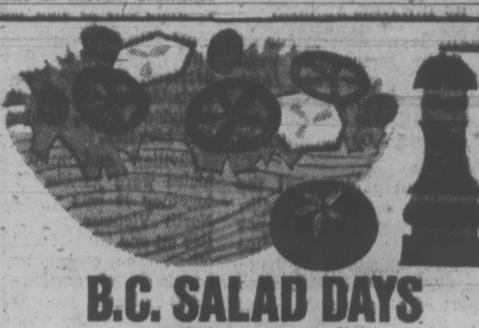

Eight persons at the club were treated in hospitals for injuries. Most were minor.

The storm cut a narrow path for about two miles through the area, felling trees and power and telephone lines. Several roads were impassable because of fallen trees.

New England Telephone said about 400 customers were out of service in the area.

In the central part of the state a "twin" tornado cut a 10-mile path between Phillipston and Winchendon, uprooting trees and damaging creeps.

Quang Tri 'Massacre' Report Inflated

Soldiers and fleeing civilians died in the South Vietnamese retreat from Quang Tri late in April. A U.S. state department report has told of a massacre of 1,000 to 2,000 civilians by the North Vietnamese. An Associated Press correspondent who spent most of the last four months on the northern front examines the episode in the following analysis.

By HOLGER JENSEN

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of South Vietnamese were killed trying to escape from Quang Tri City before its fall. The slaughter was indiscriminate, by definition a massacre.

But from evidence at the scene and in the aftermath, the action April 29-30 was not "a deliberate North Vietnamese army massacre of helpless civilians," as U.S. state department spokesman John King described it.

The carnage suggested a cold-blooded North Vietnamese resolve to stop all traffic on Highway 1, in callous disregard of civilian targets. But there was no evidence of a deliberate intent to single out the civilian refugees.

More than half the victims were South Vietnamese soldiers, and Washington's estimate of 1,000 to 2,000 dead seems inflated.

Interviews with survivors of the massacre and a visual inspection of the death site indicate 200 to 600 dead. Panic was a major contributing factor to the bloodshed.

CUT OFF ESCAPE

North Vietnamese forces surrounded Quang Tri and cut Highway 1, its southern escape route to Hue, a week before the fall of the province capital. South Vietnamese marines who were given the job of reopening the highway fought their way to within eight miles of Quang Tri. Three convoys of South Vietnamese troops and civilians tried to flee southward on Highway One between April 24 and 30. They were ambushed by North Vietnamese forces entrenched on both sides of the highway, four to eight miles southeast of Quang Tri.

This correspondent was with South Vietnamese marines who fought their way to the southernmost ambush site April 30. Wounded survivors who passed the advancing marines said their convoy had been hit by mines, mortars, rocket grenades and small-arms fire from North Vietnamese dug in as close as 20 yards to the roadway.

The state department said the North Vietnamese used anti-personnel artillery shells with fuses set for air bursts, which "shredded the refugee column" with sprays of shrapnel.

But frontline witnesses reported no air bursts before April 30—any such would have killed troops of the North Vietnamese ambush force as well as the fleeing South Vietnamese.

Air bursts were fired by North Vietnamese on April 30-May 1 and many civilians were hit. By then the civilians were intermingled with South Vietnamese rangers fighting their way out of Quang Tri.

Only a small portion of one ambushed convoy was visible from the South Vietnamese lines in those last hectic days before the fall of Quang Tri. The full savagery of the slaughter did not become apparent until two months later, when Saigon's paratroops returned to the scene at the spearhead of a counter-offensive. This correspondent was with the paratroops.

Hundreds of wrecked vehicles and bodies littered a four-mile stretch of Highway 1. Four out of five vehicles were military—jeeps, trucks, tanks, armored personnel carriers, artillery pieces and ambulances. Civilian vehicles included buses, motorcycles and bicycles.

Civilians and military vehicles were jumbled so close together it was obvious the North Vietnamese could not fire on one without hitting the other. The concentration of wreckage at certain points also indicated panic on the part of the South Vietnamese.

Convoy drivers appeared to have been so intent on fleeing Quang Tri they continued to drive into withering fire even after lead vehicles were hit and the highway was blocked.

Graves registration workers found 186 civilians dead at ambush sites. Of these, 76 were claimed by relatives. The other 110 were buried in a mass ceremony at Phong Dien on Aug. 1.

It is not known how many military dead were recovered. South Vietnamese officials did not announce the military toll, and informants only knew of a burial service for 40 unidentified soldiers. It appears, however, that most of the victims were soldiers because most of the wrecked vehicles were military.

Sole survivor of one family fleeing carnage was small boy

It seems in all there were 600 dead. This is biased on visual inspection by this reporter. Interviews and the accounts of other experienced field reporters.

One American here who says he contributed to the report asserts he clearly informed the state department that 100 to 200 civilians had been killed in the ambushes.

He could not explain how the figure had risen to 1,000 except to say: "There must have been a screwup somewhere along the line."

LIST HOLDINGS MINISTERS TOLD

TORONTO (CP) — In the wake of a disclosure that Attorney-General Dalton Bales and two partners stand to make up to $177,000 on land expropriation by the provincial government, Ontario cabinet members have been ordered to provide Premier William Davis with a list of all property holdings.

Mr. Bales has offered to resign and said Wednesday he would decide within two days whether to resign his cabinet post and his seat in the legislature.

Premier Davis told a news conference Wednesday he was trying to persuade Mr. Bales to remain in the cabinet and accused the news media of drawing "prejudicial" inferences on the matter.

The land is near the proposed site for Toronto's new international airport and Mr. Bales said he and his partners could make between $77,000 and $177,000 for the farmland which the Ontario government will expropriate.

Premier Davis said the attorney-general was not privy to any information or studies pertaining to the airport. He said there "was no evidence of impropriety."

Mr. Davis said that on Jan. 25 he wrote a letter to all government members asking them to discuss with him any possible conflicts of interest.

He said he received a letter from Mr. Bales Feb. 4 informing him of the land purchase and on Feb. 23 he acknowledged Mr. Bales letter.

"In fairness to Mr. Bales, and I believe there has been unfairness to him, I should say that he brought this to my attention and obviously for my advice and decision."

PURCHASE REVIEWED

"It would have been entirely correct for him to conclude from my acknowledgement of his letter that I had no advice to give him," said the premier.

Mr. Davis said he thoroughly reviewed the purchase of the 99 acres of farmland.

The attorney-general told a news conference he had done nothing wrong.

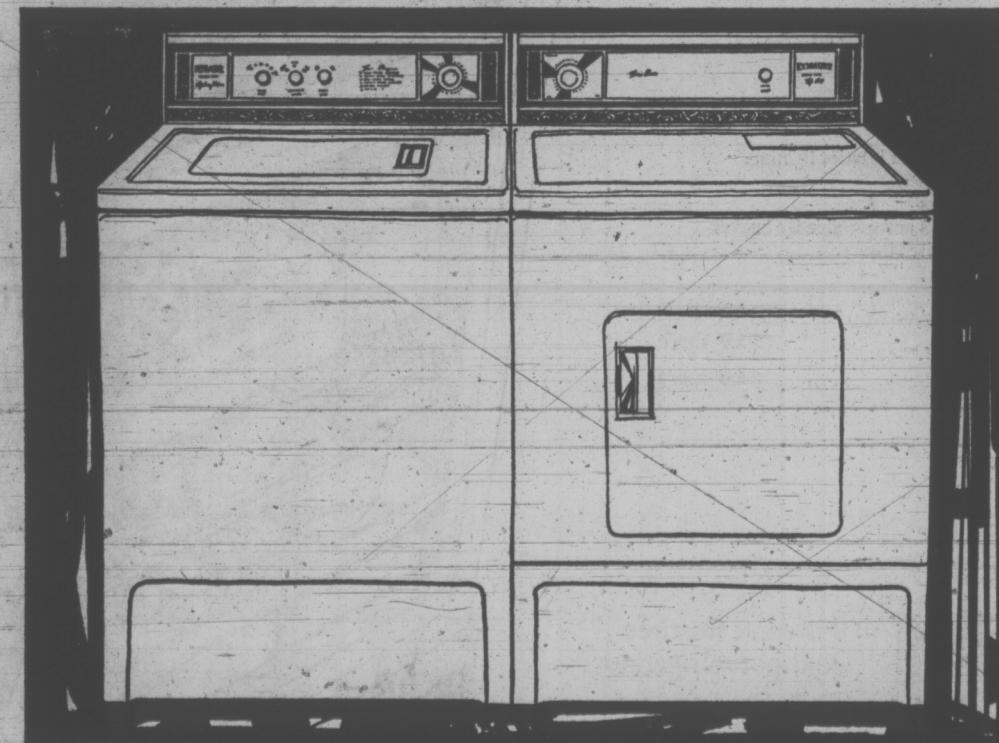

"If I had done something wrong the decision would be very easy."

"There should be nothing to impair my ministry or the reputation of Mr. Davis and his government," he said. "I don't want to cast any burden on the premier."

Hearing on Island Gas Line Closes

VANCOUVER (CP) — Final testimony was heard Wednesday in the three-month-old Public Utilities Commission hearing into applications for a gas pipeline to Vancouver Island.

One of the last witnesses, Kelly Gibson, chairman of the board and operating head of Westcoast Transmission Ltd., told the hearing that the price of natural gas to consumers will go up.

Westcoast will supply natural gas for the pipeline from wells in the Fort St. John and Fort Nelson areas in northern British Columbia.

Gibson was unable to say when the increase would occur but said it was inevitable.

He said producers in the Fort St. John area, which supplies 40 per cent of Westcoast's gas, are going into negotiation for a wellhead price after rejecting Westcoast's offer of 1½ cents a thousand cubic feet.

Fort Nelson contracts will not be renegotiated until 1974, but Gibson said the increased price at Fort St. John would be spread over the whole system.

Gibson, who was asked by the PUC to appear at the hearing to discuss the gas supply situation, emphasized he was not appearing on behalf of any applicant. Westcoast is the parent company of Pacific Northern Gas Co. Ltd., one of the five applicants for the pipeline contract.

Westcoast has offered to supply gas for the Island pipeline at Williams Lake at 33.2 cents a million cubic feet and at Huntingdon, where B.C. Hydro ties into the Westcoast system, at 73.5 cents.

Clarke said: "One can safely conclude ... that the Mount Casement Pass is not an active glacier and is probably not a glacier at all."

couver Island needs for a 20-year period.

Earlier Wednesday, the commission heard testimony from a glaciologist, Garry Clarke, geologist H. W. Nassim and Robert Wilson, a geotechnical engineer, who contradicted earlier evidence that there is a glacier on Mount Casement Pass on Vancouver Island that would make a land line over that route hazardous.

Clarke said: "One can safely conclude ... that the Mount Casement Pass is not an active glacier and is probably not a glacier at all."

WASHINGTON (WP) — The Pentagon acknowledged Wednesday that it planned to "go forward" with a program aimed at developing new missile warheads accurate and powerful enough to knock out well-protected "hard" targets in the Soviet Union.

Though the decision represents an important turn in U.S. weapons development policy, Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim denied the project represented a change in American strategy.

Friedheim said U.S. policy remains the prevention of war through deterrence and retaliation, and that the United States was "not planning a first-strike force in any sense." And, he added, "We have made no determination to seek one."

So-called "hard target" warheads have traditionally been associated with the idea that they could be used in a surprise first strike to destroy enemy missiles protected in underground concrete and steel silos.

In 1970, the Nixon administration declared it had no intention of developing this type of weapons "which the Soviets could construe as having first strike potential."

Wednesday, Friedheim said that what was now moving ahead was a research and development project and that any decision on actual deployment project and that any decision on actual deployment was still perhaps five years or more away.

He talked of the development of these new weapons as a potential "option" for a U.S. president as a means to attack Soviet underground command centres and nuclear weapon storage areas in the event of war, rather than for use against missile silos.

He said the project would also make for "a strong position" for the United States in the second round of strategic arms discussions later this year — when the United States will press the Soviets to limit their multiple warhead deployments — and as a "hedge" against the possible failure of the just concluded initial arms pact.

He indicated that the United States was "certainly willing" to talk about mutual restriction with the Soviets on such work, similar to restraints put on anti-ballistic missile system research in the initial SALT accords.

We think Comet is economical, durable, great value and very maneuverable.

People who own them think the same.

Mercury Comet 2-door.
Whitewalls shown are optional at additional cost.

Just ask them

Our compact Comet has turned out to be a very big seller for some very good reasons.

Like owner satisfaction. People are finding out that what we say about Comet is true. It's economical, durable and great value. Then to further strengthen its appeal, it's smooth riding and very comfortable.

And we think that happy owners are the very best possible reference a car can have.

But even so, you don't have to take their words for it, come into a Mercury dealership and see for yourself.

The first time you open and close the door, the solid sound will tell you that Comet is built in the Mercury tradition of quality engineering. For mile after mile of motoring satisfaction.

On the inside, Comet 2-door models seat 4 adults and the slightly larger 4-door models seat 5 adults. In true, quiet comfort.

You'll find Comet is small enough to easily handle the tight parking spaces and heavy traffic of cities. And yet it's large enough to give you the comfort you want for extended travelling on the highways.

And you'll find that Comet's 200 CID "6" engine delivers plenty of performance as well as giving good gas mileage for true economy.

Then when it comes to value, the easiest way to check that out is to check the prices of competitive compacts. You'll find that Comet is the compact with the compact car price.

In fact, Comet is such a great little car, at such a competitive price, we think we're going to cause a lot of import owners to move up a notch.

We'd like you to come in and find out about Comet right now. If you can't, or if you're still not convinced, talk to a Comet owner today. And we'll be seeing you at a Mercury dealership tomorrow.

The compact car with better ideas.
At your Mercury dealer.

Mercury Comet.

Jockey Club Denies Fire Orders Broken

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fire department criticism that the B.C. Jockey Club failed to implement a city council order for a 24-hour fire patrol at the Exhibition Park racetrack has mystified club officials.

Two recent fires at the racetrack have killed 37 horses. The city council order was imposed following a June 4 barn fire in which 28 horses died. Another 12 horses were killed in a fire Aug. 4.

Acting Mayor Halford Wilson was told this week by fire chief Armand Konig that the fire patrol was not always on an hourly basis as ordered.

Racing director Merv Peters said this was untrue.

"The tapes on the (watch-man's) clock show it was every hour but he may have been ten to 15 minutes late if he had to check something," he said. "He was certainly closer to one hour than three."

Chief Konig said he was basing his criticism on information derived from the tape.

"The club has attempted to meet council's requirement, but so far it hasn't been satisfactory," he said.

Tiny Toro Key To Solar System

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The earth's "second moon," a planetoid named Toro which may hold the key to the evolution of the solar system, passed within 12.6 million miles of the earth this week, the closest it has been in nearly a century.

A scientist said the discovery of Toro could mean horoscopes are "out of phase."

Toro, which was spotted last October by Nobel laureate Hannes Alfvén, is too small and distant to be seen with low power telescopes. It is a mile and a half long and a mile wide.

But the planetoid was observed by high powered telescopes of observatories. The Goldstone radio observatory in the Mojave Desert bounced a radio signal off it.

Dr. Gustav Arrhenius of the University of California, San Diego, reported Tuesday discovery of three asteroids which are similar to Toro.

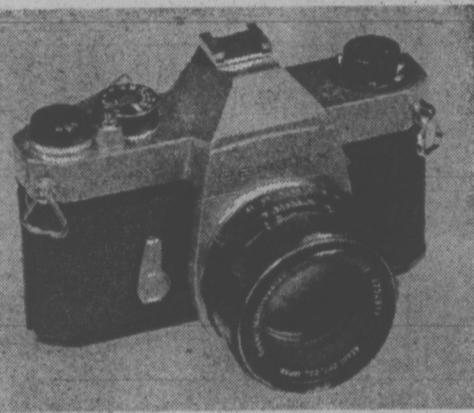

The four objects, he said, are well-preserved "fossils . . . which could tell us about the conception, birth and BIZARRE COSTUMES colorful pint-sized floats, drawn by eager young "muscle men," were all part of the scene today when hundreds of Greater Victoria children invaded Beacon Hill Park for the big event.

Victoria city playgrounds' fourth annual parks day. His mother's kitchen strainer doubled for headgear for Bob Sherman of Beacon Hill School, when he dropped in from Mars for the big event.

Temporary queen status was conferred on Heather Slater, six, of Blanshard School (at right) as she waved a royal hand, from her flower-decked throne. Horsepower of her vehicle was non-existent

Manager Stabbed In Holdup Attempt

A Victoria department store manager was stabbed in his office twice during an unsuccessful robbery attempt Wednesday afternoon.

Robert Taback, 36, the manager of the Metropolitan store, 1222 Douglas, was stabbed by a lone robber in the store's second floor business office at about 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Taback is in satisfactory condition in Victoria General Hospital.

Shortly after 4 p.m. the bandit went up to the second floor office wearing a mask and carrying a bag and a gun, believed to be a handgun, and told a woman working there to give him all the money, police said.

Taback, who was also working in the office, arrived and a scuffle between the two men followed.

When it was over Taback had been stabbed twice in the side.

No one had seen the knife before the stabbing.

After the scuffle the masked assailant ran down the stairs and out of the store to Yates St. He got no money.

In the confusion that followed, no one saw which way he went after he left the store.

Police described the man as about 50 years old, about 5 feet, 8 inches tall and weighing 160 pounds with a red face.

He wore a full mask with no air holes but wore it pulled up in the store letting employees to see part of his face.

The man asked for the money in the original holdup attempt and another employee of the store had viewed the pictures of known criminals but were unable to make any identifications, police said.

Taback lives at 5211 Metral Drive in Nanaimo.

Park-Land Swap Was Fair-Bruch

Esquimalt MLA Herb Bruch said today the province is negotiating for this 155-acre parcel too.

He said the government is also negotiating with Pacific Logging for more land adjacent to community-owned land on the Sooke River flats downstream.

Perhaps as much as 100 acres is involved and the province is trying to acquire it under the recently-established fund to buy greenbelt land.

Between the Sooke Community Association, the parks branch and the greenbelt fund "we're trying to tie up as much Sooke river frontage as we can," he said.

While the Sooke potholes, deep river pools a few miles north of Milne's Landing, are a favorite swimming and picnicking location, most people use the section along side Sooke River Road where the park has been established.

Better than two miles of potholes on the Sooke River lie upstream on the property of John Barnes and Bruch.

Military Band In Park Sunday

Music from the Big Band Era of the '30s to the music of Burt Bacharach and Creedence Clearwater Revival will be featured at a concert with the Canadian Forces Base Naden "Show Band" in the Cameron Bandshell at Beacon Hill Park, Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Under the direction of Capt. Ben Bogisch, the band has broken the traditional image of a military band to introduce a new musical concept to rejuvenate the image of professional bands and provide communication between the Canadian Forces and the young people of Canada.

Two Win Ball Turnney

There were two winners at the Southern Vancouver Island Fire Fighters "Slow Pitch" softball tournament last weekend.

The Esquimalt police team won on the field in the 15-game tournament at Helmcken Centennial Park. Proceeds of $157.35 have been donated to the burns care unit at Victoria General Hospital.

The View Royal fire department hosted the turnney. Also taking part were teams from Colwood and Sidney RCMP detachments, Colwood fire department, the Christie Point Men's team, the provincial parks branch and the Victoria West All-Stars.

ONE-GIRL CAMPAIGN to save Nootka Court totem pole on Humboldt is being waged by Sharon Douglas, 647 Michigan. The pole, placed outside the court without city hall approval, is due to be removed, but Miss Douglas, pictured above with carver Tony Hunt, is circulating a petition to rescue it. Diversified Holdings Ltd. erected the pole without waiting for a reply from city hall on its application. City engineer James Garnett says the 24-inch diameter totem pole occupied more than one quarter of the sidewalk. (John McKay photo.)

Pollen Urges Caution

Mayor Peter Pollen says he doesn't think the city's taxpayers could afford such a "gigantic undertaking" as the $15 million referendum for environmental projects which one alderman has proposed.

"It would escalate taxes enormously," Pollen said in an interview today.

The idea for the referendum was advanced earlier this week by Ald. Ove Witt, who said the money could be used for such purposes as park development, acquisition of waterfront land and construction of malls.

H. Hart said that realtors were complaining that allowing political candidates to flaunt the bylaw while others had to obey it was discriminatory.

Smith noted that the election signs were "temporary abhoritions" adding, "if they paint houses funny colors and have signs all over the place, they're actually going to repel voters."

He conceded that the bylaw "needs bit of upgrading" and some long-range regulation on signs in commercial areas is needed.

All four candidates have their headquarters in commercial zones where, building inspector Bill Skead said regulations limit both the size of signs and the letters on them.

The committee agreed that, meanwhile, the political candidates should again be told by the police that they are breaking the law.

Bates was told: "Try again, if one can comply, the others can."

A CKNW's newsroom had no record of such a report.

Cut Costs By Making Meals From Scratch....

By ANN DUNSMUIR
Times Staff

Governments may claim inflation is under control, but the average housewife disagrees.

Each week her grocery allowance buys less — even when she makes an effort to economize by shopping for specials and comparing prices in different stores.

Mrs. Juliet Robbins, 24 Bushby Street, shops and cooks for a family of five. Her husband, Peter, teaches political science at the University of Victoria. They have three children, Daniel and Rebecca, four-year-old twins and Patrick, 18 months.

Mrs. Robbins says: "I find the best way to budget, and at the same time raise our standards of eating, is to make as much as possible from scratch."

She makes her own bread, cakes, cookies, preserves, soups, candies and wine.

"We also grow our own vegetables, herbs and fruit whenever possible," she said.

Mrs. Robbins suggests housewives buy in bulk when items are on special in supermarkets — "especially meat" for freezers.

"I never buy canned or pre-packed food," Mrs. Robbins said.

She wishes her children would drink powdered milk and that she could "stand the taste of margarine." Mrs. Robbins comes from New Zealand and is appalled by the cost of dairy foods in Canada.

... THIS MOTHER DOES IT FOR FAMILY OF FIVE

PANCAKES (serves 4)

1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup cold milk
2 eggs
1 cup all-purpose flour
2 tbsp. melted margarine or butter

Put liquid, eggs, salt in a blender. Add flour and butter and blend at high speed for one minute or beat well by hand.

Use a small pan to cook each pancake individually. Rub pan with oil and add a scant 1/4 cup of batter and cook over medium heat turning the pancake to brown both sides. Keep-cooked pancakes warm between two plates set over a pan of simmering water.

Filling can be any leftover vegetable, meat, fish or poultry.

FILLING

2 ounces margarine or butter
1/4 pound coarsely chopped mushrooms

juice of 1/2 lemon
1 small onion finely chopped
3 tbs. flour
1 cup milk
1/4 pound cooked, diced ham or other leftover

2 tbs. finely chopped parsley salt and freshly ground pepper

Heat one ounce margarine in frying pan. Add mushrooms and lemon juice and cook for two minutes over medium heat and place in a separate bowl. Heat remaining ounce of butter, add onion and saute until golden color. Stir in flour and mix well.

Add milk and cook two to three minutes, stirring constantly.

Fold in mushrooms and juice and add ham, parsley and seasoning. Fill pancakes and serve with tossed green salad.

Mrs. Robbins' recipe for baked fish with vegetables can be prepared in advance and is a meal in itself.

BAKED FISH WITH VEGETABLES

2 tbs. margarine or butter
1 cup regular rice
1/4 cup thinly sliced green onions

12 small white onions or six medium onions quartered
1/4 cup margarine or butter
2 cloves garlic crushed
2 green peppers sliced
6 medium carrots sliced on the diagonal

2 stalks of celery sliced on the diagonal
1 tbs. flour
1 tsp. dried basil

1/2 tsp. oregano
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper water

juice of 1 lemon
1/2 pounds of fillet of sole or any white fish salt and pepper

sliced Mozzarella cheese
3 tbs. margarine or butter
1 tbs. lemon juice
2 tbs. minced parsley

Melt 2 tbs. margarine in a heavy saucepan. Add rice and green onion and cook stirring gently until rice is lightly browned. Add water and salt as directed on rice package and cook until rice is tender.

Heat oven to 400 degrees F.

Butter a 13x9x2 inch baking dish. Spread half the rice down either side of the dish, leaving about three inches between the rows.

Heat 1/4 cup margarine in a heavy saucepan. Add onions and cook until golden color. Add garlic, green peppers, carrots and celery. Cook stirring gently for five minutes. Add flour, basil, oregano and salt and pepper. Mix well.

Add water to lemon juice to make 1 1/2 cups liquid and add to pan. Stir to blend, bring to a boil, cover, turn down heat and simmer for 10 minutes.

Sprinkle pieces of sole generously with salt and pepper. Cut into serving-size pieces. Cut cheese in thin slices. There should be one slice of cheese for each piece of fish. Cheese slices and fish should be of equal size.

Place fish on rice and cover with cheese. Pour vegetables and sauce into the middle of the baking dish between the rows of rice and fish. Sprinkle with parsley. Cover baking dish with foil and bake for 15 minutes. Uncover and bake for 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily.

KOFTA CURRY

1/2 tsp. powdered ginger
1/2 tsp. powdered garlic
1 cinnamon stick

2 bay leaves cooking oil

1 pound hamburger or minced raw veal or pork

2 medium onions finely chopped
2 tbsp. ground coriander

1/2 tsp. turmeric
1/2 tsp. garam masala or curry powder

1 tsp. cumin seed
1/2 tsp. cayenne pepper
1/2 small can of tomatoes plus juice or homemade tomato sauce

2 tbs. plain yogurt or butter-milk salt oil

Sprinkle meat with garlic and ginger powder. Mix the rest of the spices and salt together and knead half of them into the meat. Form meat into small balls.

Add yogurt and tomatoes and mix well. Drop in meat balls and add enough water to almost cover. Simmer, covered on lowest heat for 1 1/2 hours. This may be eaten at once but is improved if refrigerated and the fat removed. Reheat and serve with cucumber Raita and chutney.

CUCUMBER RAITA

1 cucumber

2 tsp. cumin powder

salt to taste

1 cup plain yogurt

Chop cucumber finely, removing seeds if desired. Add cumin powder and salt. Mix with yogurt.

Indian Culture Taught

WENDY DEY - EDITOR

Traditions far older than the first white settlement of Vancouver Island are being revived this week for a group of local children.

The children are enrolled in Kumtuks, a program of Indian crafts and culture offered at the Provincial Museum.

Teacher Mrs. Emma Hunt has been showing the children, aged 8 to 14, the bead-work and basket weaving skills of her tribe, the Kwakiutl Indians of northern Vancouver Island.

Because the course is only two hours a day for five days, the youngsters get only a sample of Kwakiutl customs and crafts. Mrs. Hunt gave the program to two groups last week, and has two more groups this week.

Girls seem to like bead-work, leatherwork and basket-weaving best, said Mrs. Hunt. For the boys, Mrs. Hunt's son Calvin demonstrates Indian wood carving. The Kwakiutl tribe was once one of the best totem pole carving tribes of the West Coast.

"Everything they did in the olden days, they used cedar, and birch for dishes," said Mrs. Hunt. The Kumtuks classes make their Indian baskets out of strips of cedar bark.

The children get a chance to learn Indian dancing and Indian games, such as the Thunderbird and the Wood-pecker. In this game, the children try to throw long wooden poles through rings placed on the ground.

They also have a "pot-latch", an Indian feast, as the end of the week. Mrs. Hunt makes them Indian bread and Indian ice cream, a dessert made from soap berries.

This is the fourth summer the museum has offered the Kumtuks program, and some of the children have come every year. Victoria Down and Claire Singleton, both 12, have come all four summers. The program changes every year, they said, because each year it has a different teacher and studies a different tribe.

For anyone who wants to try her hand at Indian bread, here is the recipe:

2 cups flour
1 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. salt
2 tsp. baking powder
1½ cups water

Mix ingredients to make batter, then either spoon out mixture into frying pan or make a type of flat patty, as you would for baking powder biscuits. Make sure frying pan is hot and greased. Cook as you would pancakes. Serves 4-5 people.

Mother Returns With Life-Saving New 'Ticker'

TORONTO (CP) — Sandra Frederick arrived here Wednesday from Houston with a mechanical heart valve inside her that she said "ticks like a time bomb."

The 25-year-old Toronto mother of three has a new lease on life following an operation Houston, Tex., two weeks ago by Dr. Michael DeBakey who has performed 75 such operations.

Dinner Wednesday night was the beginning of a four-to-five-month recovery period during which she expects to regain her strength and the more than 30 pounds she has lost.

The five-foot, 10-inch woman weighs 97 pounds. After weight recovery hopes lead to a normal life.

A month ago she was given no more than five years of life unless she underwent an operation that would cost her at least $2,500. She had no hope of raising that amount.

Her heart specialist had told her the operation to replace the aortic valve — and other complications — had never been performed in Toronto. He recommended she go to Dr. DeBakey.

But as a deserted wife with three small children and living on $244-a-month mother's allowance, Mrs. Frederick saw no hope of raising the money for the air fare or the medical expenses.

Then a local newspaper wrote of her plight and readers began donating money to make the trip possible.

Ontario Health Insurance Plan officials originally said they would pay only 75 per cent of hospital costs and 90 per cent of the fee agreed for the operation by the Ontario Medical Association.

But this stand was revised and the provincial officials agreed to pay all hospital costs. Dr. DeBakey agreed to accept whatever fee OHIP agreed to pay.

Wednesday Mrs. Frederick showed reporters two strings of computerized bills — for OHIP, both more than six feet long.

One totaled $3,397.10 and the other $4,445.61.

She put off seeing her three children, Peter, 6, Shawn, 18 months, and Sheryl, 6 months, because "all the excitement might be too much in one day."

They have been in a foster home and doctors have told her she won't be able to look after them for at least three months.

Double Engagement?

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to a Navy man for three years. We have a darling baby. I thought we had a good marriage until last week when I flew home to see my parents. I sat next to a pretty blonde girl on the plane, and we started talking. She told me her fiance was on "The

_____, and she named the ship. That was the ship my husband was on. Then she showed me his picture and I nearly fainted.

Her "fiance" was my husband! I couldn't contain my amazement, so I told her. Then it was her turn to nearly faint. The poor kid started to shake and cry and I had to calm her down. We spent the rest of the flight comparing notes. Abby, my husband was such a clever liar. He had this girl friend for over a year and I never suspected a thing.

The girl said she would never see my husband again and I believe her. I'm not sure how to handle this. I still love him, and there's the baby to consider. What should I do? I don't think I could ever trust him again. —Hurt.

DEAR HURT: Tell him you know about the "fiancee" and ask him if he's ready to settle down and be a proper husband and father. One swallow doesn't make a summer, and one escapade doesn't ruin a marriage forever. Give him another chance, and don't mention it again.

Lately, however, this one couple seems to go overboard, fancy desserts, and more expensive dinners than the rest of us. We like this couple a lot and don't want to lose their friendship over this; but we don't like the extra expense.

Any suggestions? —X Y and Z.

DEAR X Y and Z: When you order, ask for separate checks. Your friendship will last longer if you eliminate the cause of resentment.

ANOTHER TIME, WHEN I TRIED TO TIP A HAIRDRESSER (A MAN) AND HE RAISED HIS EYEBROWS AND ARROGANTLY SAID, "PUH-LEEZE, I OWN THIS SHOP!"

I NEVER KNOW WHAT TO DO. HELP? —IN Doubt.

DEAR IN: When in doubt, offer a tip. For every "puh-leeze," you'll get 100 "thank yous."

DEAR ABBY: We are three couples who enjoy going out for dinner together. When we go to a restaurant, we always divide the check up into thirds and it has always worked out fine.

'Potato Blight' Defects

BAR HARBOR, Me. (AP) — A British scientist said this week that the eating of blighted potatoes during the first month of pregnancy may be associated with the incidence of two severe birth defects.

However, Dr. J. H. Renwick of the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, said that his theory is based so far on comparisons of blighted incidence and the incidence of the defects. He said some laboratory animal evidence may be forthcoming.

He spoke at a course in medical genetics conducted by Johns Hopkins University at a laboratory here.

Dr. Renwick, discussing his theory with reporters, said blighted potatoes contain chemicals that could lead to birth defects known as spina bifida and anencephaly. The potato blight appears as a blackish-brownish blemish seen after peeling, if it is not already visible on the outside.

Infants with anencephaly are born without the top of the head and the defect is always fatal. Those with spina bifida are born with an open spine and while some can be kept alive, they are grossly mal-formed.

In the United States, one of every 1,000 births. In Belfast and Dublin, about one percent of all babies are born with one of the defects.

Of the incidence in the United States, there is a "preponderance" on the east coast, including the potato producing state of Maine, he said.

In Idaho, he said, where the weather is dry and the humidity is low, therefore reducing blight, the incidence is lower.

The Simple Truth About Husband-Wife Projects

I am always a bit skeptical when I read magazine stories about successful husband and wife projects.

These articles invariably feature a picture of a couple holding hands above a caption such as "Babsie and I had a really splended time refinishing this antique Hepple-white commode."

"If the truth were told, I'm certain that they loafed every minute of it, and the only reason that he is holding Babsie's hand is to keep her from bashing him in the forehead with a quart can of varnish."

One of the first difficulties a husband and wife face is the question of pace. While one of you views stripping and refinishing a Boston rocker as a sort of life work, something to fill an odd-hour or two every third Thursday, the other is determined to see the last coat of varnish on the rocker by 4:30 that afternoon at the latest.

Roam Off for Food

The former is given to solemnly intoning nauseating homilies like, "Rome wasn't built in a day" and, "Haste makes waste," then roaming off to the kitchen every 15 minutes for a cup of tea and a bun, leaving the latter to sand all the green paint off those charmingly intricate carvings on the chair and mutter under his breath.

Moreover, the former is invariably a raving perfectionist who insists on taking tweezers and removing the twenty-seven gnats which have stuck themselves to the stain rather than simply varnishing over them.

Any handicraft project should be undertaken by two people who not only aren't married, but preferably by two strangers who already have taken an immediate dislike to each other. Since all manner of nasty, irrevocable remarks are going to be hurled, these exchanges are best left to those who are not presently nursing mutual grievances that they are secretly pining to rehash.

Not only do strangers lack ammunition for lethal thrusts, but they don't have to go to bed together afterwards.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Forecast for Friday, Aug. 11, 1972

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Do something to rid yourself of tension. Change pace. Steer clear of someone who is writing you love letters. Review work procedures. Leave details to others. Take time to review entire project.

TAURUS (April 20-May 19): Put in financial reins. Don't give up something for nothing. Be thorough. Read fine print. One who loves you will be your best friend. Aquarius and Leo and Scorpio persons figure prominently. Clear away clouds of confusion.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Action is on change. Travel variety. People seek your opinions. Speak up without appearing to know it all. Maintain composure. Pace yourself. Virgo and Libra are message. You are given more responsibility.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may have postponed journey. One who is usually reliable now is apt to be confused. Know this and be self-sufficient. Strain out domestic affairs. Leave nothing to chance. Get ready.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): See beyond surface indications. Ignore one who is intent on spreading rumors. Stick to facts. Special association with Pisces is indicated. Friends confident problem. Don't carry another's burden.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You are a hard worker and a good informant. Ask for certain material — now you are given green light. Key is to be selective. You make significant gains by choosing with care. Don't rush.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You find what you stand for. Maintain self-control. Study Virgo message. Finish what you start. Added recognition is due. Show that you are person of vision. Potential is great. Know it and respond accordingly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Friend asks advice to health problems. Be co-operative. Remember Golden Rule. You will be told of new project. Examine various possibilities. Leo could play prominent role. Greater happiness due.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get clearance from one in position of authority. Express willingness to co-operate. These new promises may be financially short. Realize this and respond accordingly. Protect your own interests.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What you seek may be at a distance. Avoid premature judgment. Wait for observations. Check correspondence. Message or call may contain double meaning. Be on the alert. Ask questions. Demand direct replies.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Young person needs guidance. If discipline is necessary, use velvet touch.

glove. Means avoid know-it-all attitude. You have lessons to learn. Maintain attitude of give-and-take. Financial question requires review.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lie low. Don't fish around. Have lessening. Obtain hint from Aquarius message. Security may be at stake. Hold off on signing of important documents. Partnership proposal might best be delayed. You will understand.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You are intuitive, a natural teacher, capable of inspiring confidence. You attract many admirers. Bruise will be healed. You are dynamic, an individual to your fingertips. You attract many, however, who are not your type. Do not mind being alone. Refuse to be discouraged by those of little faith.

Navy Accepts Women at Sea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The acting captain of the USS Sanctuary says a few things such as locker space for sailors must be worked out but he doesn't expect any major problems when his ship becomes the first in the U.S. navy to accept women on board.

Lt. Cmdr. Arnold D. Marsh, prospective executive officer of the hospital ship, said there's been the "usual number of crude jokes and delighted expectations" from the men now manning the vessel, but he expected few problems because the crews had been allowed only on medical ships as doctors and nurses.

"I believe any man or woman should be able to serve his country in any capacity he wishes," Zumwalt said when asked if the new ruling would mean women might eventually be sent to combat.

"... When you look at the level to which our society has developed there is no reason in theory, in sociology or in equity why women should not have the same opportunities the men have."

Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., chief of naval operations, announced in Washington this week that for the first time in history the navy would allow women to go to sea as both officers and regular crew members. Previously women had been allowed only on medical ships as doctors and nurses.

"I assume the Waves will be handpicked so we don't get involved in any problems," he said. "There's going to be a lot of attention and publicity and the navy's going to be sure nothing goes wrong."

"There are going to be difficulties, of course. It's a whole new thing and we have no lessons to follow. But I don't see any insoluble problems."

Marsh, 36, a 14-year navy veteran, said the number of women assigned to the ship could run from "a few up to 30 or so." He said the Pentagon was presently deciding how much "berthing space" each officer and enlisted woman would need.

"We're trying to decide things like whether women need more locker space than men for their skirts," he said. In San Diego Seaman Vicki Farrell, 19, formerly of Indianapolis, said, "I think it'd be interesting — the travel, the foreign ports. That's what the navy's all about."

"There are some jobs that would be unfavorable to women but there are some that aren't too favorable for men. Women can cope with a lot."

The Sanctuary, being overhauled at Hunter's Point Naval Shipyard, was picked as the first ship because it had previously carried female nurses. Zumwalt said mostly big ships will be used for female crew members but that 69 job ratings are open to women — instead of the present 24 — including such as gunners mate, torpedoman and boiler worker.

The Sanctuary and its full crew, including women, was expected to arrive in San Francisco next month. Training cruises are scheduled for December.

JUST COULDN'T WAIT

LACOTA, Mich. (AP) — It's been unseasonably cold in Michigan the last few days, but Michigan state police were surprised when they were called to investigate a snowmobile accident.

It seems Michael Cochran, 28, of this southwestern Michigan community had just bought a new snowmobile and was anxious to try it out. He did — on his lawn — and one of the machine's skis caught in the ground and Cochran was pitched off. He suffered a shoulder injury.

Coming in October: HIGHER MINIMUM WAGES FOR BRITISH COLUMBIANS

In most areas of employment, British Columbia's minimum wage levels are already the highest in Canada. But our minimum wages will be increased even further under terms of the Kelowna Charter, announced recently by Premier Bennett.

Higher minimum wages are only one of the new policies for people contained in the Kelowna Charter. The Charter also includes new job-creating policies . . . a higher pension supplement for senior citizens, plus other important features. To bring these new benefits to British Columbians without any delay, a special session of the Legislature will be held in October.

The Government headed by Premier Bennett continues to build on a twenty-year record of achievement . . . with new policies for all the people of British Columbia. Keep that record in mind on August 30th.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

North could not be certain that one runs into the realm of unbalanced hands, with seven- and eight-card suits floating around, plus a couple of voids, the point-count method of bidding — or any method — takes a back seat. As evidence, observe what happened to poor East on this deal.

East-West vulnerable. East deals.

♥ A J 10 9 5 2
♦ 6 5 3

WEST EAST
♦ 5 ♠ A
♥ 7 4 ♠ 8 6
♦ J 10 7 6 4
♦ 10 8 4 ♠ A K Q J 9 7 2

SOUTH
♦ K Q J 7 6 3 2
♥ K Q 3
♦ 9 8 5

East South West North
2 ♦ 2 ♠ Pass 4 ♠
2 ♦ 5 ♠ 6 ♠ 6 ♠
Dbl. Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

The bidding was more or less normal. When North jumped to four spades, he felt that either South would make the contract or go down a trick. The latter figured to be a cheap sacrifice against either a diamond or a club contract which he thought the opening two-bidder's side could make.

East's five-club was automatic — he had 11 winning tricks in his own hand. South, feeling that he could not defeat East's contract, elected to sacrifice at five spades.

West's six-club bid was based on "fact" and "hope." The "fact" was that East had bid five clubs, vulnerable, all by himself. The "hope" was that, somehow, West's hand would produce a trick for East.

Ethnic Concerts On Tour

TORONTO (CP) — Les Sorciers (roughly The Sorcerers) of Quebec and the Ukrainian Canadian Youth Association of Toronto, each 40 members strong, Wednesday night presented the third in a series of 12 concerts taking the entire group from Montreal to Banff, Alta.

The UKSOR Project, as it is called, is financed by the secretary of state's office as part of its policy of encouraging the preservation of ethnic culture in Canada.

The 80 members are all high school or university students who perform without pay. Their travel expenses are paid and they are billeted in homes in each community the group visits.

Admission prices depend on whether the organization has to rent a hall. In Toronto tickets were $2 and $3.

In Winnipeg, where UKSOR plays tonight, the concert will be free because the Manitoba government is including the group in its Folkarama celebrations.

Superstar Given Cool Welcome in London

LONDON (Reuter) — Ten months after reaching the stage in New York, the British rock musical Jesus Christ Superstar finally opened in London Wednesday night to lukewarm reviews in the British press.

A group of hymn-singing demonstrators stood outside the Palace theatre as the first-night audience arrived, carrying placards with slogans such as "This is NOT our Jesus" and "Jesus is NOT a superstar."

The mass-circulation tabloid

Daily Mirror headlined its review: "Super rock—but it's not the real superstar."

Reviewer Arthur Thirkell says while the production was acclaimed by the audience, "for me it is not the most heavenly show in town. But it does occasionally explode into some tremendous rocking numbers."

Jesus Christ Superstar, written by young Britons Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice, relates in an exuberant rock opera form Christ's last seven days on earth.

John Barber in The Daily Telegraph writes:

In The Times, Irving Warble writes:

"The Superstar is a self-doubting hippie who has hit a bad scene. Mary Magdalene becomes a dollybird who digs Jesus, and Judas a careerist who is afraid the boss is overpushing a great racket."

"There are plenty of stylistic things to commend in the show. What offsets them is the widespread assumption possibly shared by the authors . . . that it has something to do with Christianity."

He Just Can't Forget Those Wrecked Planes

By DONNA CLEMENTS'

Times Staff

DUNCAN — Searching for Second World War military aircraft that crashed on Vancouver Island more than 20 years ago has become an obsession for John Chase.

"When I hear about where a plane went down it just gets into my blood and I can't leave it until I find it," Chase, 30, of Saltair said.

After four trips over a two year period into the Little Nitinat River area, near Nitinat Lake past Cowichan Lake, Chase was finally able to find the remains of a B-24 Liberator that crashed in 1943.

He found the wreck a month ago while searching on the 4,300-foot mountain and took eight friends in Saturday to view the area once more, and to bring down parts of the Liberator. Included in the group were three girls.

After a full day's hiking in and out of the crash area, the group brought out old machine gun shells and apart of a wing flap.

TO RETURN

Chase plans to return with friends again within the next month to attempt to bring out one of the plane's 65 pound machine guns to donate to the Maritime Museum in Victoria.

Chase, a pilot for the past five years who is now apprenticesing as an engineer at the Cassidy Airport, said a friend of his, Ernie Clarke, of Lady Smith, had told him about the plane crash.

Duncan Bureau

Ernie's dad was on the rescue team, Chase said. "He said the Liberator, which has a wing span of 110 feet, weighed 60,000 pounds, had 11 machine guns on it and four Pratt and Whitney engines, crashed and eight English crew members were killed."

Chase said he could see where the plane had hit on one side of the hill in a little gully and just missed making it over the mountain (which is not named) by 20 feet.

Bones had been dug up and scattered around so we buried them, he said.

JUNKYARD

"When looking at the crash scene, which looks like a junkyard, I could just visualize the terror the men must have gone through before they crashed. It went about 300 feet through trees and brush before it broke into pieces."

"There are still lots of live machine gun shells and fire extinguishers there but we knew enough to stay away from them."

Chase said his first trip into the area was in 1969. "I was alone and just missed finding the plane by 15 feet."

A month later he made his second trip alone while just three months ago he and his father, a Second World War pilot, went in.

It was on his fourth trip that he finally found the wreck but by then he was too tired so he just turned around and walked back.

Not Guilty Plea

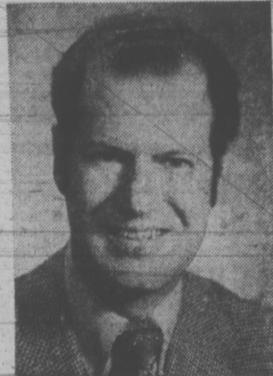

GRAND FORKS (CP) — Boundary Forest Products Ltd. entered a plea of not guilty Wednesday on a charge of contravening a Grand Forks anti-noise bylaw. The charge was laid July 27 by Peter Terehodoff of Grand Forks. The provincial court trial will be held Sept. 6.

RAIDERS SNATCH $330,000

LONDON (AP) — Masked raiders armed with shotguns snatched more than $330,000 from a London bank today as security guards watched helplessly.

The six bandits fired several shots into the ceiling of the bank in suburban Wembley and forced staff and customers to lie on their faces on the floor, while they grabbed the money.

Socreds First to Nominate Full Slate of Candidates

The Social Credit Party is the first to nominate a full slate of 53 candidates for the Aug. 30 provincial election and the New Democratic Party is expected to complete its slate today.

Nominations close Aug. 16 at 1 p.m.

There are still 10 vacancies in the Liberal ranks. The Progressive Conservatives, making their first major provincial effort since E. Davie Fulton led the party in 1963, have eight candidates left to nominate.

There are also three officially-nominated Communists and four announced independent candidates.

The grand total of candidates as of Wednesday night was 207, meaning there will probably be more than 225 candidates for the 55 seats by the time nominations close in six days.

Party representation in the last house was: Social Credit 36, NDP 12, Liberals 5 and Conservatives 2.

The Socreds completed their slate with nomination by acclamation of incumbent Frank Ney in Nanaimo riding Ney, 55, is also mayor of Nanaimo.

this time. Retiring are party whip Hunter Vogel of Langley, Works Minister W. N. Chant of Victoria, Recreation Minister Ken Klerman of Chilliwack, Harold Merilees of Vancouver-Burrard and Dudley Little of Skeena.

Incumbent John Tisdale of Saanich and the Islands lost the Social Credit nomination to Foster Isherwood but may seek re-election as an independent.

In addition, another Social Credit incumbent — Dr. Howard McDiarmid — has switched ridings. He moved from Alberni to Oak Bay, where he is challenging Tory G. Scott Wallace.

By far the most durable of the Social Credit candidates is Premier Bennett himself. He has held the Okanagan South riding since 1941 and is fighting his 11th campaign there.

The median age of the Social Credit candidates works out to 49½ years. The party slate includes 10 business executives, six teachers, six lawyers, five car dealers, four reactors, four merchants, three ministers, two farmers and 15 others with a variety of occupations.

The party offers five women candidates this time around including three incumbents without portfolio — Grace McCarthy in Vancouver-Little mountain, Isabel Dawson in Mackenzie and Patricia Jordan in Okanagan North.

In the other parties, all of the incumbents have been renominated.

U.K. Airlift

Times News Services

LONDON — The government today ordered military planes to mount an emergency airlift of food and other vital supplies to Britain's most northerly offshore islands.

The airlift was ordered to head off threatened starvation in the Orkney and Shetland islands north of Scotland, which have been virtually isolated by a nationwide ports shutdown now in its 14th day. (See also Page 15).

Striking longshoremen refused to load even emergency supplies to the 34,000 islanders.

The military airlift to the Orkneys and Shetlands was the first time the government has used the emergency powers it took a week ago.

But it postponed at least until next week use of troops to move foodstuffs blockaded in strikebound seaports around the country.

There appeared little prospect of a return to work for another 10 days.

Wide-bellies Hercules transport aircraft at the Royal Air Force base of Kinloss, northern Scotland, were standing by to fly 180 tons of flour, cereals, cooking fats and sugar to the Orkney and Shetland isles.

An RAF spokesman said the airlift will begin Friday. Private airlifts have already proved insufficient.

The dock workers ignored pleas from islanders' leaders for a temporary break in the docks blockade which has left hundreds of tons of vital supplies for the Hebrides and other islands strike-bound on the quays of Glasgow docks.

Another airlift to the western isles was expected shortly.

"If the government want these supplies moved, they should use their emergency powers," one longshoremen's official said.

"The ball is in the government's court — they should do something about it."

Prime Minister Edward Heath's government last week declared a state of emergency to cope with the effects of the dock strike — which has crippled imports of food for animals and humans and stalled exports worth millions of dollars — but has not yet invoked it.

The plight of the western isles and of the Shetland and Orkney islands, all of which rely on supplies from the mainland, was a foretaste of what is in store for all of Britain if the strike goes on much longer.

Coquitlam Battles Mosquitoes, Wrists

Efforts to combat a plague of mosquitoes have brought the municipality of Coquitlam into a court battle over aerial spraying.

Two-year-old Melanie Meades (left), who has been under doctor's care for two days because of infected mosquito bites, is among residents of the Vancouver suburb who have been stricken by what acting mayor Stan Hofseth describes as "the worst plague of mosquitoes since 1948."

But aerial spraying of the pesticide Malathion, which began Monday, has resulted in wrists being filed in Supreme Court to prevent it on health grounds.

Among those filing wrists to stop the spraying are Mr. and Mrs. John McAdam (below) who with neighbors are flying helium-filled balloons over their property to keep away the plane doing the spraying.

Meanwhile, in neighboring Port Coquitlam, the city council has also voted to begin aerial spraying of Malathion.

Hail, Twisters Rip Into Quebec Farms

By The Canadian Press

The weather system which devastated southeastern Quebec's farmlands early this week struck again Wednesday as hailstorms, rain and high winds brought power blackouts to thousands of residents.

Sporadic blackouts lasting 10 minutes to six hours hit a 30-mile stretch from St. Céleste to Waterloo, near Granby, 50 miles east of Montreal.

Boucherville and Chateauguay, just south of Montreal, also suffered power failures.

A small tornado sliced through a section of the Laurentian community of St. Céleste Wednesday, cutting some hydro and telephone lines and killing 12,000 chickens when it ripped a chicken house from its foundations.

As well as lifting the four-storey wood and tin chicken house from its concrete foundations, the twister damaged a house, stable, grain-storage building and a garage at the farm. About 100 trees in a nearby orchard were uprooted.

Another small twister hit the outskirts of Ottawa.

Victory Goldblom, Quebec minister responsible for the environment, is to make a helicopter tour of the area today to assess the damages inflicted by torrential rains which began Monday night.

In addition, officials of the roads, natural resources and agriculture departments, the Quebec Housing Corp., provincial police, and civil protection agencies are on the scene. Premier Robert Bourassa said Wednesday.

A spokesman for Premier Bourassa said a decision may be taken today about what measures the government will take to help farmers and municipalities in the ravaged region.

Maurice Guinard, president of the Montreal Association of Market Gardeners, estimated that $5 million worth of vegetables and hay crops have been ruined.

11-YEAR-OLD HIT IN DRUG ROBBERY

BOSTON (AP) — An 11-year-old boy is in poor condition and a 15-year-old companion is in critical condition following a shootout at a Roxbury variety store where, police said, a robbery was staged to get money to buy heroin.

Another youth was arrested at Boston City Hospital where he brought one of his wounded friends, and a fourth, who police said has a $40-a-day heroin habit, is at large.

The 11-year-old boy was in poor condition at hospital following surgery for a gunshot wound in the head. The 15-year-old was critical with wounds in the back, arms and both legs.

Police Capt. Joseph Cummings said one of the boys has "needle tracks" on both arms and has admitted having a heroin habit.

Police said four youths entered the store and one of them pulled a gun on store owner John Sturniolo. Sturniolo pulled a gun from his belt and fired three shots at the youths.

Gunman's Capture Sparks IRA Riots

Times News Services

BELFAST — Fierce rioting erupted in Belfast Wednesday night following the capture of guerrilla leader Martin McGuinness.

And bombs and gunfire rocked the city of Armagh, the religious capital of all Ireland, as Roman Catholics took to the streets to mark the first anniversary of the British government's internment-without-trial laws. Fifteen shots were fired at British patrols, but no casualties were reported.

In the Ardoyne district — Meehan's stronghold and one of the IRA's "no-go" areas until troops invaded with tanks 10 days ago — a mob of 2,000 youths and women hurling rocks and fire bombs besieged more than 500 soldiers.

The troops finally drove the mob off with rubber bullets.

Meehan, 26, a docker who became a top leader of the provisional wing of the outlawed IRA, had been on the run since last December when he staged a dramatic break from Belfast's Crumlin Road Jail.

Several weeks ago he returned to his old haunts in the Ardoyne, never sleeping two nights in the same house or drinking twice in the same pub.

It is not known whether Meehan would be put on trial or interned.

Drug Cult Eyed B.C. Farm

the drug cult but it sure looks that way," the spokesman said in a telephone interview.

Meantime, in Vernon, rancher Tom Collins confirmed that Youngstrom placed a $6,000 deposit on the property in June.

"He signed an interim agreement to purchase the land for $100 an acre," Mr. Collins said.

"He was up here with his wife and son and as far as I knew he wanted the property for a hobby farm."

Kalamalka Realty of Vernon, handled the transaction.

A company spokesman said Youngstrom was to have taken possession of the land by July 1. He said it was to have been registered in the name of Youngstrom's mother, a resident of Grant's Pass, Ore.

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said he would ask for a report from the RCMP on the matter and added that his department would do whatever possible to prevent the sale of any land for the purpose of turning it into a drug commune.

VANCOUVER (CP) — An American arrested last week in a massive drug roundup on the U.S. West Coast was about to close a deal for 320 acres of ranchland near Vernon, it was reported Wednesday.

Law enforcement officials in the United States said there were indications the ranch was to be used as a commune by the Brotherhood of Eternal Love, the drug cult founded by Dr. Timothy Leary.

U.S. officials also speculated that Dr. Leary, who faces deportation in October from Switzerland where he fled to avoid narcotics charges in the U.S., may have been considering living on the ranch himself.

Carlton Andre Youngstrom II, one of about 50 brokerage members arrested, was carrying a document relating to the land deal when he was picked up.

In Santa Ana, Calif., a spokesman for the district attorney's office said a copy of the letter had been sent to the RCMP here.

"We don't know for a fact that the land was to be used by

DEATH PENALTY QUESTION OPEN

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The chief justice of the California Supreme Court predicted Wednesday that although the U.S. Supreme Court has taken a step to abolish the death penalty, it must still face further decisions before the issue is settled.

However, Justice Donald R. Wright said, because of the slow legal system "it will be years" before the U.S. high court may again have to face a death penalty case.

Wright and the chief justices of 45 other state supreme courts gathered in Seattle today for the opening session of the 24th annual National Conference of Chief Justices.

Wright said the U.S. Supreme Court's decision earlier this year banning the death penalty as it is usually enforced in the country left an opening for states to re-enact laws prescribing the death penalty for certain kinds of crimes on a mandatory and uniform basis.

In Oklahoma City prosecutors were told to go ahead and seek the electric chair in any case they feel it is necessary.

Oklahoma Attorney General Larry Derryberry said "the law is still on the books in Oklahoma. Until there is some finality in the Supreme Court's decision, it will remain the law in the state of Oklahoma."

U.S. Unions Asked to Free Canadian Units

MIAMI (CP) — New Democrat Leader David Lewis called on American labor unions today to help promote autonomy of United States-based unions in Canada and to oppose restrictionist trade policies at home.

He said that, as nationalism has expanded in Canada, there has been increasing concern about outside control of Canada's international unions.

"I want to say bluntly to you that I share this concern."

Although some unions had given control to Canadian leaders over the policies of their locals, "it is not true of all international unions."

"I am pleased that the Canadian Labor Congress and your own leaders in Canada have been addressing themselves to this problem and working for ever-increasing autonomy for the Canadian sections of international unions," he told the international convention of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and the Canadian Food and Allied Workers.

"Much still remains to be done and I hope that your union will continue to promote and assist the development of full autonomy for Canadian labor."

WANT MORE CONTROL

The New Democrats, who have pressed in the Commons for more domestic control of foreign corporations, have often been chided by MPs in other parties for their dependence on support from U.S.-based unions in Canada.

Lewis said U.S. union leaders should recognize the growth of nationalist feeling in Canada.

Americans should know that we are not prepared to be regarded as an appendage of the United States of America. We are determined to build our own society, separate, distinct and independent."

Lewis also criticized measures aimed at protecting U.S. markets — and jobs — from exports from abroad.

"These protectionist policies are a danger to international trade generally, but are particularly dangerous for Canadian and Canadian workers" because about 70 per cent of Canadian exports to go to the U.S. and about the same proportion of imports come from the U.S.

EXPRESSES CONCERN

He said he was especially concerned that "important sections of the labor movement in the U.S." including the AFL-CIO, supported such restrictive policies.

"I appreciate that it is the right of every country to protect its interests. But it seems to me that labor's objectives of greater equality and justice for all people are not served in the long run by selfish trade policies and that such policies are a distortion of labor's social goals."

He concluded by insisting "that there is an obligation on the heads of international unions in the United States to consider the welfare of their members in Canada and to consult with their Canadian counterparts before embarking on policies which cannot but harm their brothers and sisters in Canada."

3 Satellites Ordered By Western Union

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Western Union Telegraph Co. announced this week that it has ordered three communications satellites from the Hughes Aircraft Co. to be used in the first U.S. communications satellite system.

The first satellite — which would transmit telegraph signals, data communications, and internal "private line" messages for major businesses — is scheduled to be launched in April, 1974 and should be operational a month later, Western Union officials said.

Including seven planned earth stations (to send and receive signals), the project's total cost is estimated at $69 million, according to Western Union.

Western Union's announcement comes less than two months after the U.S. Federal Communications Commission issued a decision lifting a longstanding ban on private satellite systems.

NINE PLANS

Nine separate satellite plans had been submitted to the FCC, but Western Union's agreement with Hughes marks the first time that any company has actually ordered satellites and set a timetable for operation.

Even if Western Union meets its schedule, it probably won't be the first in North America.

While the FCC and the White House have debated satellite policy since 1965, the Canadian government has quietly proceeded with plans for an independent system by longrange television, radio and telephone transmission.

In addition, there is a growing demand for "private line" communications, under which Western Union provides links between different office locations (or factories) of the same company for the trans-

LONE PICKET PROTESTS

A former truck driver with the provincial government postal department, 33-year-old Terry Roberts, 1430 Courtland Avenue, staged a one-man protest outside the Legislative Buildings Wednesday morning.

Roberts was protesting his suspension in July from the department. He claims he sustained a severe back injury in 1971 while working as a provincially employed janitor for the Riverview Mental Hospital at Essondale.

He is appealing a Workmen's Compensation Board offer of half his monthly salary of $665. No reason was given by the provincial personnel officer for Roberts' suspension.

Western Union's transition hasn't been easy.

As it has retrenched from its telegraph business — the number of company-operated offices has declined from 2100 in 1962 to less than 900 today — the volume of complaints has risen. Last year, for example, the FCC strongly criticized the company for allowing services to deteriorate, indicating that telegram delivery is often slow and customers frequently have trouble reaching a Western Union office by phone.

RESERVE SATELLITE

Under Western Union's satellite plan, seven earth stations will be located outside these major cities: New York, Los Angeles, Dallas, Atlanta, Honolulu, Portland (Ore.) and Chicago. Two satellites will be put into orbit, with one in use and one for reserve in case of failure; a third will be kept on the ground as a replacement.

Western Union officials say the company pays the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. $22 million annually for the lease of ground transmission facilities, and that some of the traffic that goes to AT&T could be switched to satellites. Most of the satellite's 5,700 to 6,000 circuits, however, will be taken by normal expansion in communications volume, which Western Union says is growing 20 per cent annually.

Tuesday's action requires final FCC approval, but having obtained a temporary waiver from agency rules, Western Union officials expressed confidence that there would be no problem.

DEMOCRATS FOR NIXON

WASHINGTON (WP) — Unfolding a list of prominent Democrats already signed up for President Nixon, former treasury secretary John Connally stepped forward Wednesday as their national chairman.

He said the New Democrats only go one way: Downward and backward."

Democrats for Nixon, Connally stressed, will keep hands off all other political races this fall — congressional, state and local. The committee's sole purpose, he said, is the president's reelection.

Memory of Agnes Lingers In Signs of Devastation

By The Associated Press

The floodwaters of Tropical Storm Agnes are long gone, but the signs of devastation remain in the thousands of people still homeless, the hundreds of roads still impassable and the acres of cropland still barren.

An Associated Press survey of the area flooded by Agnes from June 16 to June 23 showed massive clean-up efforts have provided at least the basic necessities of life for the more than 500,000 persons in the eastern United States who suffered from the storm.

The hardest work still lies ahead, however.

The department of housing and urban development has ordered 9,250 mobile homes at a cost of about $50 million for the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., region, for example. But only three of 29 newly designated trailer areas are completed.

PUMP OUT WATER

Workers finally finished pumping out the slime from the basement of a downtown movie house in Elmira, N.Y. But all of the 1,037 seats on the ground floor of the 2,000-seat theatre have to be stripped down to their framework, cleaned and repainted.

The small business administration approved 714 loans totaling about $2.2 million for damaged homes and businesses in West Virginia. But it expects the final figure to reach $5 million for 1,800 loans.

The office of emergency preparedness said Wednesday that Agnes caused 118 deaths and more than $3 billion in property damage. It said 5,000 square miles of land were inundated by 28.1 trillion gallons of water that fell and flooded communities along 4,500 miles of major rivers and 9,000 miles of streams and tributaries.

OEP Director George Lincoln said that more than $2.2 billion in federal and private relief will be available to help rebuild. In most areas, the most critical problems are finding housing for the homeless and repairing damaged streets and other city facilities.

Manager Stabbed In Holdup Attempt

Robert Taback, 36, the manager of the Metropolitan store, 1222 Douglas, was stabbed by a lone robber in the store's second floor business office at about 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Taback is in satisfactory condition in Victoria General Hospital.

Shortly after 4 p.m. the bandit went up to the second floor office, wearing a mask and carrying a bag and a gun, believed to be a handgun, and told a woman working there to give him all the money, police said.

Taback, who was also working in the office, arrived and a scuffle between the two men followed.

When it was over Taback had been stabbed twice in the side.

No one had seen the knife before the stabbing.

After the scuffle the masked assailant ran down the stairs and out of the store to Yates St. He got no money.

In the confusion that followed, no one saw which way he went after he left the store.

Police described the man as about 50 years old, about 5 feet, 8 inches tall and weighing 160 pounds with a red face.

He wore a full mask with no air holes but wore it pulled up in the store letting employees to see part of his face.

The man asked for the money in the original holdup attempt and another employee of the store had viewed the pictures of known criminals but were unable to make any identifications, police said.

Taback lives at 5211 Metral Drive in Nanaimo.

RAIDERS SNATCH
$330,000

LONDON (AP) — Masked raiders armed with shotguns snatched more than $330,000 from a London bank today as security guards watched helplessly.

The six bandits fired several shots into the ceiling of the bank in suburban Wembley and forced staff and customers to lie on their faces on the floor while they grabbed the money.

Dock Fight Hardens

Times News Services

Battle lines have hardened in the work stoppage at Vancouver docks with longshoremen continuing to demand that employers hire men through the union office and the employers wiring Ottawa and provincial premiers that the union is to blame for the shutdown.

Also, the longshoremen in Vancouver and five other ports including Victoria are conducting strike votes today and Friday.

Six grain ships and all general cargo vessels have been affected by the controversy. The unions want men hired through the dispatching office while employers want to maintain a regular work force on their docks.

Emergency U.K. Airlift

Times News Services

LONDON — The government today ordered military planes to mount an emergency airlift of food and other vital supplies to Britain's most northerly offshore islands.

The airlift was ordered to head off threatened starvation in the Orkney and Shetland islands north of Scotland, which have been virtually isolated by a nationwide ports shutdown now in its 14th day. (See also Page 15).

Striking longshoremen refused to load even emergency supplies to the 34,000 islanders.

The military airlift to the Orkneys and Shetlands was the first time the government has used the emergency powers it took a week ago.

But it postponed at least until next week use of troops to move foodstuffs blockaded in strikebound seaports around the country.

There appeared little prospect of a return to work for another 10 days.

Wide-bellied Hercules transport aircraft at the Royal Air Force base of Kinloss, northern Scotland, were standing by to fly 180 tons of flour, cereals, cooking fats and sugar to the Orkney and Shetland Isles.

An RAF spokesman said the airlift will begin Friday. Private airlifts have already proved insufficient.

The dock workers ignored pleas from islanders' leaders for a temporary break in the docks blockade which has left hundreds of tons of vital supplies for the Hebrides and other islands strike-bound on the quays of Glasgow docks.

Another airlift to the western Isles was expected shortly.

"If the government wants these supplies moved, they should use their emergency powers," one longshoremen's official said.

"The ball is in the government's court — they should do something about it."

Prime Minister Edward Heath's government last week declared a state of emergency to cope with the effects of the dock strike — which has crippled imports of food for animals and humans and stalled exports worth millions of dollars — but has not yet invoked it.

The plight of the western Isles and of the Shetland and Orkney Islands, all of which rely on supplies from the mainland, was a foretaste of what is in store for all of Britain if the strike goes on much longer.

Coquitlam Battles Mosquitoes, Wrists

Efforts to combat a plague of mosquitoes have brought the municipality of Coquitlam into a court battle over aerial spraying.

Two-year-old Melanie Meades (left), who has been under doctor's care for two days because of infected mosquito bites, is among residents of the Vancouver suburb who have been stricken by what acting mayor Stan Hofseth describes as "the worst plague of mosquitoes since 1948."

But aerial spraying of the pesticide Malathion, which began Monday, has resulted in writs being filed in Supreme Court to prevent it on health grounds.

Among those filing writs to stop the spraying are Mr. and Mrs. John McAdam (below) who with neighbors are flying helium-filled balloons over their property to keep away the plane doing the spraying.

Meanwhile, in neighboring Port Coquitlam, the city council has also voted to begin aerial spraying of Malathion.

NEWS BRIEFS

Fallers Meet

NANAIMO (CP) — A meeting of dissident Vancouver Island fallers has been called for today at Parksville to discuss recent firings of fallers by forest company employers. Faller spokesman Chuck Evans said the meeting will include a secret-ballot vote to determine if the men favor continuation of their fight.

Five Arrested

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five persons were arrested today in Vancouver's west end and several weapons seized by city police after reports that an armored car was to be held up.

Spassky Opens

Bangladesh Rejected

RAWALPINDI (Reuters) — Pakistani President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto today ruled out his government's recognition of Bangladesh and said Bangladeshi leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman will find the doors of the United Nations closed.

Children Stabbed

TORONTO (CP) — One child was stabbed to death and another critically wounded Wednesday night when a man wielding a butcher knife ran amok in an east-end home. Police said no reason for the attacks could be found.

Hail, Twisters Rip Into Quebec Farms

By The Canadian Press

The weather system which devastated southeastern Quebec's farmlands early this month struck again Wednesday night. The twister damaged a house, stable, grain-storage building and garage at the farm. About 100 trees in a nearby orchard were uprooted.

As well as lifting the four-story wood and tin chicken house from its concrete foundations, the twister damaged a house, stable, grain-storage building and garage at the farm. About 100 trees in a nearby orchard were uprooted.

Another small twister hit the outskirts of Ottawa; Victoriaville, Quebec, minister responsible for the environment, is to make a helicopter tour of the area today to assess the damages inflicted by torrential rains which began Monday night.

A spokesman for Premier Robert Bourassa said Wednesday.

Bourassa said a decision may be taken today about what measures the government will take to help farmers and municipalities in the ravaged region.

Maurice Guindon, president of the Montreal Association of Market Gardeners, estimated that $5-million worth of vegetables and hay crops, have been ruined.

11-YEAR-OLD HIT IN DRUG ROBBERY

BOSTON (AP) — An 11-year-old boy is in poor condition and a 15-year-old companion is in critical condition following a shooting at a Roxbury variety store where, police said, a robbery was staged to get money to buy heroin.

Another youth was arrested at Boston City Hospital where he brought one of his wounded friends, and a fourth, who police said has a $40-a-day heroin habit, is at large.

The 11-year-old boy was in poor condition at hospital following surgery for a gunshot wound in the head. The 15-year-old was critical with wounds in the back, arms and both legs.

Police Capt. Joseph Cummings said one of the boys has "needle tracks" on both arms and has admitted having a heroin habit.

Police said four youths entered the store and one of them pulled a gun on store owner John Sturniolo. Sturniolo pulled a gun from his belt and fired three shots at the youths.

Gunman's Capture Sparks IRA Riots

Times News Services

BELFAST — Fierce rioting erupted in Belfast Wednesday night following the capture of guerrilla leader Martin Meehan.

And bombs and gunfire rocked the city of Armagh, the religious capital of Northern Ireland, as Roman Catholics took to the streets to mark the first anniversary of the British government's internment without trial laws. Fifteen shots were fired at British patrols, but no casualties were reported.

In the Ardoyne district — Meehan's stronghold and one of the IRA's "no-go" areas until troops invaded with tanks 10 days ago — a mob of 2,000 youths and women hurling rocks and fire bombs besieged more than 500 soldiers.

The troops finally drove the mob off with rubber bullets.

Meehan, 26, a docker who became a top leader of the provisional wing of the outlawed IRA, had been on the run since last December when he staged a dramatic break from Belfast's Crumlin Road jail.

Several weeks ago he returned to his old haunts in the Ardoyne, never sleeping two nights in the same house or drinking twice in the same pub.

It is not known whether Meehan would be put on trial or interned.

The IRA said in a statement that Meehan "gave himself up to avoid bloodshed" by those things in uniform."

ELECTION ROUNDUP

Socreds First to Nominate Full Slate of Candidates

The Social Credit Party is the first to nominate a full slate of 35 candidates for the Aug. 30 provincial election. The New Democratic Party is expected to complete its slate today.

Nominations close Aug. 16 at 1 p.m.

There are still 10 vacancies in the Liberal ranks. The Progressive Conservatives, making their first major provincial effort since E. Davie Fulton led the party in 1963, have eight candidates left to nominate.

In addition, another Social Credit incumbent — Dr. Howard McDiarmid — has switched ridings. He moved from Alberni to Oak Bay, where he is challenging Tory G. Scott Wallace.

For the most durable of the Social Credit candidates is Premier Bennett himself. He has held the Okanagan South riding since 1941 and is fighting his 11th campaign there.

The median age of the Social Credit candidates works out to 49½ years. The party slate includes 10 business executives, six teachers, six lawyers, five car dealers, four realtors, four merchants, three ministers, two farmers and 15 others with a variety of occupations.

The party offers five woman candidates this time, including three incumbents — Frank Ney in Nanaimo riding, Ney, 55, is also mayor of Nanaimo.

Six grain ships and all general cargo vessels have been affected by the controversy. The unions want men hired through the dispatching office while employers want to maintain a regular work force on their docks.

Drug Cult Eyed B.C. Farm

VANCOUVER (CP) — An American arrested last week in a massive drug roundup on the U.S. West Coast was about to close a deal for 320 acres of ranchland near Vernon, it was reported.

Law enforcement officials in the United States said there were indications the ranch was to be used as a commune by the Brotherhood of Eternal Love, the drug cult founded by Dr. Timothy Leary.

U.S. officials also speculated that Dr. Leary, who faces deportation in October from Switzerland where he fled after escaping prison in the U.S., may have been considering living on the ranch himself.

Carleton Andre Youngstrom II, one of about 50 Brotherhood members arrested, was carrying a document relating to the land deal when he was picked up.

In Santa Ana, Calif., a spokesman for the district attorney's office said a copy of the letter had been sent to the RCMP here.

"We don't know for a fact that the land was to be used by the drug cult but it sure looks that way," the spokesman said in a telephone interview.

Meantime, in Vernon, rancher Tom Collins confirmed that Youngstrom placed a $6,000 deposit on the property in June.

"He signed an interim agreement to purchase the land for $100 an acre," Mr. Collins said.

Kalmalka Realty of Vernon handled the transaction.

A company spokesman said Youngstrom was to have taken possession of the land by July 1. He said it was to have been registered in the name of Youngstrom's mother, a resident of Grant's Pass, Ore.

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said he would ask for a report from the RCMP on the matter and added that his department would do whatever possible to prevent the sale of any land for the purpose of turning it into a drug commune.

TEAMWORK is needed by Toronto tacklers Peter Paquette (17) and Marv Luster as they haul down Saskatchewan runner George Reed during Canadian Football League game

Wednesday night in Regina. Reed provided power for Roughriders, rushing for 129 yards and scoring touchdown as Roughies defeated Argonauts 15-6. (CP Wirephoto)

'Curse' Gets Help From Reed Rushes

REGINA (CP) — George Reed was the spirit Wednesday that enabled Saskatchewan Roughriders to maintain the "Taylor Field curse," an affliction suffered by Toronto Argonauts for some time.

He rushed for 129 of Saskatchewan's 198 yards on the ground and led the previously winless Roughies to a 15-6 victory over the bewitched Argonauts.

The loss left the Argos the only Canadian Football League club without a win in the 1972 regular season. Also, they have not won at Taylor Field since CFL interlocking play began in 1961.

Both teams remain at the bottom of the standings in their conferences and both are injury-ridden. Saskatchewan is without veteran Nola Bailey, Gig Perez and Ted Duchinski, and Toronto is without first string quarterback Joe Theismann, sidelined six weeks with a leg fracture.

Second-string quarterback Greg Barton called the signals for Toronto but was good on only 14 of 29 passes and had three interceptions.

COMPLETED 12 ATTEMPTS

Veteran Ron Lancaster of Saskatchewan completed 12 of 20 attempts and had one intercepted.

It was Reed's rushing, however, that ruled the game. Reed made 25 drives, including a second-quarter touchdown from three yards out.

The scoring started at 3:40 of the first quarter when Zenon Andrusyshyn of Toronto kicked a 27-yard field goal and Saskatchewan made it 3-1 on a single at 11:34 as Elmar Sprovis conceded a point.

The Argos got their last three points of the night at 14:58 of the second quarter on a 19-yard field goal by Andrusyshyn.

The third quarter was tough and scoreless.

Bob Thompson got the last touchdown after receiving a 40-yard pass from Lancaster.

Jack Abendschau converted both Regina touchdowns.

Andrusyshyn showed his worth in third-down punting with an average yardage of 47.2 yards on 10 Toronto punts. Bob Pearce of Saskatchewan had nine punts for an average of 38.8 yards.

Pearce also was Lancaster's prime receiver, although passing was not the major factor in Saskatchewan offence. Pearce caught four passes for 37 yards while Thompson got two for 48 yards, Gordie Barwell two for 29 and Reed two for 16.

Reed's touchdown moved him into a four-way tie for third place in the Western Conference individual scoring race with 12 points.

Top rusher for the Argos was Leon McQuay with 43 yards on 11 carries. They had a total of 78 yards rushing.

Gorge Rally Ends Long Loss Streak

Gorge Hotel erupted for six runs in the fourth inning Wednesday night then held on to defeat Kubicek's Home Service 8-7 in a Victoria Senior baseball game at Lambrick Park.

The victory snapped an 11-game Gorge losing streak and moved the last-place Hoteliers to within one-half game of Kubicek's.

Don Lamourne bashed three hits in four trips to the plate and Mike Embury cracked a pair of hits to lead Gorge's nine-hit attack.

Cablevision Takes Semi-Final Opener

Dodie Skalfe hurled a six-hitter Wednesday night as Cablevision defeated Empress Paint 4-3 in the opening game of the best-of-three Victoria senior B women's softball final at Hyacinth Park.

Dodie didn't walk a batter and struck out three Empress hitters as she shelled the champions of the Victoria Senior Women's League.

Cablevision, which finished third in the same league, were led by Jeanie McHattie, who belted a double, a triple and a home run.

Also at Hyacinth, Tillicum Athletic Club grabbed the lead in the best-of-three Victoria senior C final by hammering MacDonald Furniture 19-7.

Karen Thompson pitched a four-hitter, fanning five for Tillicum.

"But the clothes are not important," Towell said. "The world title belt represents my life savings. I fought for it."

She showed some promise in the backstroke or individual medley events but failed to set any national age-group records.

But in February and March she established six short-course Canadian freestyle records.

She came into the Canadian swimming championships and Olympic trials as a co-favorite in the freestyle events with veteran Angela Coughlan of Burlington, Ont.

But Miss Coughlan became ill, missed Monday's program and was not up to par Tuesday.

Miss Rondeau took full advantage, winning the 200-metre freestyle Monday in Canadian record time. She added the 100-metre freestyle Tuesday and captured the 400-metre freestyle Wednesday.

Wednesday program produced one Commonwealth and five Canadian records.

Dawn Marie Gurr of Vancouver set a Commonwealth and Canadian record with her 2:22.5 time in the women's 200-metre backstroke while Leslie Clift, also of Vancouver, won the 200-metre individual medley in 2:25.77, another Canadian mark.

Senator Sam J. Ervin, citing the "courageous sacrifice" of professional athletes like Flood, says he will introduce legislation to exempt athletes from what he called a form of slavery that curbs their bargaining power.

Japan Planned to Bomb N.Y.

TOKYO (AP) — Tamotsu Takahashi was a 22-year-old alman in the Imperial Japanese Army and his country was at war with the United States.

Even so, he stiffened when he learned about his assignment: Bomb New York.

It was Aug. 9, 1945—27 years ago—and Japan's military leaders realized they were fast losing the war. An atomic bomb annihilated Hiroshima three days earlier; a second devastated Nagasaki on Aug. 9.

Japan surrendered on Aug. 14. But, meanwhile, its leaders cast about desperately for ways to turn the tide of defeat. Takahashi's mission—a one-way suicidal flight—grew out of this desperation.

He was a wireless operator at an air base north of Tokyo. He was ordered to report to another base for a secret mission.

"I didn't know what it was all about, and my superiors said nothing," Takahashi recalls. But he gradually pieced together details:

Three long-range K177s, twin-engined planes developed for civilian use, were to be refitted. They would carry bombs, extra fuel and a crew of two: a pilot and a wireless operator/navigator. Takahashi was to be one of the latter. The K1-77 could fly at 275 miles an hour.

MADE ALLOWANCES

Five years earlier, a K1-77 and a crew of eight flew 10,200 miles non-stop on a circular route over Manchuria. This exceeded the 6,750 miles to New York, but allowance was being made for the heavy bomb load.

To guarantee success for the mission, Takahashi says, the planes were to climb to 29,500 feet where the eastbound jet stream would give them extra speed and distance.

Once over New York, the planes were to drop their bombs and then crash.

Takahashi, now a bank executive in Tokyo, says: "I'm happy the war ended before the mission could begin. I didn't even have time to be transferred to another base, and I never got to meet any of the others who were selected for the mission."

The Japanese defence agency says the war destroyed many important military documents, and it has nothing in its archives on the mission. But it says it has heard it mentioned and some Japanese military leaders may well have planned it secretly.

Takahashi paid his first visit to New York last October.

SYRIA TO KEEP SOVIET AIDES

BEIRUT (AP) — President Hafez Assad says he will not order Soviet military advisers to leave Syria because "they are here for our own good," the leftist Beirut newspaper Al Anwar reported today.

In his first public comment since President Anwar Sadat ordered Russian advisers out of Egypt last month, Assad told an interviewer:

"We need the Soviet advisers. They will carry on their jobs here in accordance with agreements between our two countries."

However, the 42-year-old lieutenant-general who seized power in November, 1970, expressed hope that the Soviet Union "will react to our requests for arms in a better and more effective fashion."

Assad has been under pressure from domestic politicians closely supporting Egypt to follow the example of Syria's federation partner and send the Russians home.

However, the Soviet military presence in Syria is only about one-tenth of what it was in Egypt. Diplomats estimate there are 2,000 Russians stationed at various army bases throughout the country, and they do not have an operational role as they did in Egypt.

Terror Seen In Stage View Of Free Quebec

OTTAWA (CP) — A new play that grapples with questions of Quebec's future, written by a New Brunswick playwright and acted by a Toronto drama group, is getting its first public performance this week at the National Arts Centre.

Midway Priest by Louis Capson, 28, a member of the Creation 2 drama group of Toronto, is set in Quebec at some unspecified future time and what happens there is the dominant feature for Ottawa audiences during the four-night run that opened Tuesday.

Briefly, Quebec becomes independent of Canada and a power struggle breaks out between Fascist-style politicians and Marxist revolutionaries. Central character in the English-language play is a Catholic priest, Andre Bergeron, a history teacher at the University of Ottawa, an institution that straddles French and English cultures.

A detached observer and commentator in events in Quebec, he tries to maintain a neutral stand in the power struggle but fails to remain aloof, is beaten and expelled from Quebec.

Creation 2 director Gary Reeves, 25, said in an interview the play has a religious rather than political aim—to promote the idea of people learning to live together.

Despite the disavowal of political intent, some members of the audience saw the play as a statement about Quebec and a revelation of English-Canadian attitudes about Quebec and Quebecers.

Depressing Play for English

Two Canadian Press writers—one an English-speaking reporter resident in Ontario, the other a Quebecer who writes in French—attended a performance. The impressions of these two Canadians of different cultural backgrounds were written without prior consultation.

By BOB DOUGLAS

Midway Priest is a depressing play for an English Canadian.

Louis Capson assumes that Quebec independence is inevitable and weaves a tale of terror about the lives of the citizens of the new Quebec.

Reason represented by Father Bergeron, is sacrificed in the consuming drive toward a strong, independent state.

Is there no hope for reasonable men? Is there no hope for a single Canadian nation including Quebec?

Mr. Capson's qualifications for making this political statement can be questioned. He

By ELIE LALANETTE

Midway Priest is a story partly of the rise and fall of the people of Quebec, partly of the internal enemies an independent Quebec would encounter, partly about a man who declines to be committed politically.

It also deals with the fears of western Quebecers in and around Hull that independence would sever their links with Ottawa.

The members of Creation 2 say it is not a political play, but in this projection of Quebec in the future, there are clear parallels with actual situations.

For example, the attitudes in the play of the people of Hull towards independence recall real-life anti-separatist attitudes dominant there in the 1970 provincial election.

Many western Quebecers work in Ottawa and their elected representative tells the president of newly-independent Quebec in the play they are not ready to leap into separation.

The president tells the representative to go home and

Millionaire Key in Dock Strife

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — A polo-playing millionaire peer of 31 has emerged as an unexpected key figure in Britain's bitter, emotion-ridden dock strike.

Prime Minister Heath found himself publicly embarrassed over the case of Midland Cold Storage, the London container depot picketed by dockers for using non-dock labor and the flashpoint for the country-wide dispute.

Heath had described Midland in the Commons as a small firm, arbitrarily selected by the dockers as a target for wielding their strength. It then was learned that, far from this, Midland is part of the meat empire of the Vestey family, which also owns docks and has been closing rundown wharves. This has led to dockers losing their jobs while the Vestey interests, headed by the third Baron Vestey, concentrate instead on inland-situated container depots manned by non-dock labor to "stuff and strip" the ocean-going freight containers.

In dockers' eyes, therefore, the Vesteys are villains, although the number of men they have made redundant is only a fraction of the thousands of longshoremen's jobs that have withered away with the container revolution.

What a £1.5m enraged London dockers about Midland Cold Storage was that it opened at virtually the same time a Vestey wharf on the Thames closed and changed hands in a huge real estate deal involving a ($25 million) riverside hotel.

The man at the centre of the storm, Lord Vestey, is married to the daughter of a director of the Heinz canned food company. They have a baby daughter and live in a Victorian gothic mansion in the rolling Cotswold country.

present situation, the Vestey family motto is "From Labor Stability." The chief motif in the coat of arms is an iceberg rearing menacingly from the waves.

The Vestey empire, jointly controlled by the Baron and his cousin Edmund, 42, has been described as perhaps the largest private conglomerate in the country.

Meat is the basis of its wealth: the Vesteys, through family trusts, own cattle, lease 23,000 square miles of grazing land in Australia and South America, control slaughter houses, cold storage depots and nearly 50 ships which transport the meat to Europe and North America.

They also own Britain's largest meat wholesalers and largest retail butchery chain. In all, they are reported to control nearly one-fifth of all British lamb and beef imports.

Vestey interests also embrace wool mills in Yorkshire, textile factories in Hong Kong, grocery wholesalers and supermarkets, margarine manufacturers and leather firms.

The family's principal company, Union International, is reported to have a sales turnover of more than $750 million a year.

TWISTER LIFTS HUT; YOUNG GIRL CRUSHED

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)

A tornado killed a 14-year-old girl Wednesday and caused considerable damage to trees and property in a small area of Brookline.

Cynthia Cox of Weston was killed at the Longwood Cricket Club. Thomas Aselton, the club manager, said she was crushed by a small hut beside the swimming pool that was lifted 12 to 15 feet into the air by the winds.

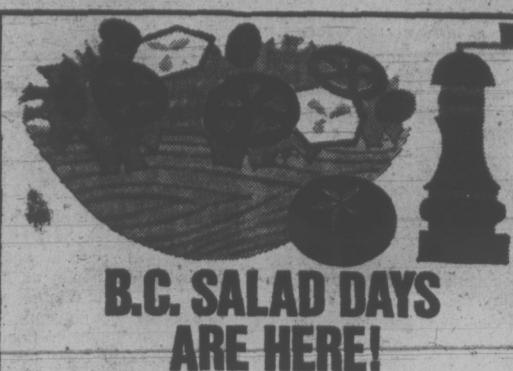

Eight persons at the club were treated in hospitals for injuries. Most were minor.

The storm cut a narrow path for about two miles through the area, felling trees and power and telephone lines. Several roads were impassable because of fallen trees.

New England Telephone said about 400 customers were out of service in the area.

In the central part of the state a "baby" tornado cut a 10-mile path between Phillipston and Winchendon, uprooting trees and damaging crops.

The Simple Truth About Husband-Wife Projects

I am always a bit skeptical when I read magazine stories about successful husband and wife projects.

These articles invariably feature a picture of a couple holding hands above a caption such as "Babsie and I had a really splended time refinishing this antique Hepplewhite commode."

If the truth were told, I'm certain that they loathed every minute of it, and the only reason that he is holding Babsie's hand is to keep her from bashing him in the forehead with a quart can of varnish.

One of the first difficulties a husband and wife face is the question of pace. While one of you views stripping and refinishing a Boston rocker as a sort of life work, something to fill an odd hour or two every third Thursday, the other is determined to see the last coat of varnish on the rocker by 4:30 that afternoon at the latest.

Roam Off for Food

The former is given to solemnly intoning nauseating homilies like, "Rome wasn't built in a day" and, "Haste makes waste," then roaming off to the kitchen every 15 minutes for a cup of tea and a bun, leaving the latter to sand all the green paint off those charmingly intricate carvings on the chair and mutter under his breath.

Moreover, the former is invariably a raving perfectionist who insists on taking tweezers and removing the twenty-seven gnats which have stuck themselves to the stain rather than simply varnishing them.

Any handicraft project should be undertaken by two people who not only aren't married, but preferably by two strangers who already have taken an immediate dislike to each other. Since all manner of nasty, irrevocable remarks are going to be hurled, these exchanges are best left to those who are not presently nursing mutual grievances that they are secretly pining to rehash.

Not only do strangers lack ammunition for lethal thrusts, but they don't have to go to bed together afterwards.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Forecast for Friday, Aug. 11, 1972

BY SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Do something to rid yourself of tension. Change pace. Steer clear of senseless displays with money, relatives and friends. Review work procedures. Leave details to others. Take time to review entire project.

Taurus (April 20-May 18): Pull in your punches. Don't be afraid to do something for nothing. Be thorough. Read fine print. One who rushes may be misinformed. Aries, Leo and Scorpio persons figure prominently. Clear away clouds of confusion.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may have to postpone journeys. One who usually is reliable now is apt to be confused. Know this and be self-reliant. Straighten out domestic affairs. Leave nothing to chance. Get receipts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): See beyond the track record of anyone who is intent on spreading rumors. Stick to facts. Special association with Pisces is indicated. Friend has a problem. Don't carry another's burden.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You are rewarded for past planning, efforts. You seek your own interests. Now you are given green light. Key is to be selective. You make significant gains by choosing with care. Don't rush.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You find out where you stand. Maintain self-control. Share your possessions. Finish what you start. Added recognition is due. Show that you are person of vision. Potential is great. Know it and respond accordingly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Friend asks aid due to health problem. Be co-operative. Remember Goldilocks Rule. You will find new project. Examine various possibilities. Leo could play prominent role. Greater happiness due.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get clearance from one in position of authority. Express willingness to compromise. Your material interests may be financially short. Realize this and respond accordingly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What you see may be at a distance. Avoid premature judgment. Write letters home. Check correspondence. Message or call may contain double meaning. Be on the alert. Ask questions. Demand direct replies.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If discipline is necessary, use velvet touch.

glove. Means avoid know-it-all attitude. You have lessons to learn. Minimal attitude gives more space. Financial question requires review.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lie low. Don't overdo things that asserting. Obtain hint from Aquarius message. Security is at stake. Hold off on signing of legal documents. Partnership agreement might best be delayed. You will understand.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You are intuitive, a natural teacher, capable of inspiring confidence. By October, professional brush will be created. You are dynamic, an individual to your fingertips. You attract many, however, who are avoidant. Do what must be done. Refuse to be discouraged by those of little faith.

Navy Accepts Women at Sea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The acting captain of the USS Sanctuary says a few things such as locker, space for skirts must be worked out but he doesn't expect any major problems when his ship becomes the first in the U.S. navy to accept women on board.

Lt. Cmdr. Arnold D. Marsh, prospective executive officer of the hospital ship, said there's been the "usual number of crude jokes and delighted expectations" from the men now manning the vessel, but he expected few problems because the crews are "grown up people."

lations, although one female lieutenant wondered "how many female boiler technicians we have."

Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., chief of naval operations, announced in Washington this week that for the first time in history the navy would allow women to go to sea as both officers and regular crew members. Previously women had been allowed only on medical ships as doctors and nurses.

"I believe any man or woman should be able to serve his country in any capacity he wishes," Zumwalt said when asked if the new ruling would mean women might eventually be sent to combat.

"... When you look at the level to which our society has developed there is no reason in theory, in sociology or in equity why women should not have the same opportunities the men have."

Marsh said the 12 officers and 40 enlisted men presently assigned to the Sanctuary were taking the order "very matter-of-factly."

"I assume the Waves will be handpicked so we don't get involved in any problems," he said. "There's going to be a lot of attention and publicity and the navy's going to be sure nothing goes wrong."

"There are going to be difficulties, of course. It's a whole new thing and we have no lessons to follow. But I don't see any insoluble problems."

Marsh, 36, a 14-year navy veteran, said the number of women assigned to the ship would run from "a few up to 80 or so." He said the Pentagon was presently deciding how much "berthing space" each officer and enlisted woman would need.

"We're trying to decide things like whether women need more locker space than men for their skirts," he said. In San Diego, Seaman Vicki Farrell, 19, formerly of Indianapolis, said, "I think it'd be interesting — the travel, the foreign ports. That's what the navy's all about."

"There are some jobs that would be unfavorable to women but there are some that aren't too favorable for men. Women can cope with a lot."

The Sanctuary, being overhauled at Hunter's Point Naval Shipyard, was picked as the first ship because it had previously carried female nurses. Zumwalt said mostly big ships will be used for female crew members but that 69 job ratings are open to women — instead of the present 24 — including such as gunners mate, torpedoman and boiler worker.

The Sanctuary and its full crew, including women, was expected to arrive in San Francisco next month. Training cruises are scheduled for December.

JUST COULDN'T WAIT

LACOTA, Mich. (AP) — It's been unseasonably cold in Michigan the last few days, but Michigan state police were surprised when they were called to investigate a snowmobile accident.

He did — on his lawn — and one of the machine's skis caught in the ground and Cochran was pitched off. He suffered a shoulder injury.

Coming in October: HIGHER MINIMUM WAGES FOR BRITISH COLUMBIANS

In most areas of employment, British Columbia's minimum wage levels are already the highest in Canada. But our minimum wages will be increased even further under terms of the Kelowna Charter, announced recently by Premier Bennett.

Higher minimum wages are only one of the new policies for people contained in the Kelowna Charter. The Charter also includes new job-creating policies ... a higher pension supplement for senior citizens, plus other important features. To bring these new benefits to British Columbians without any delay, a special session of the Legislature will be held in October.

The Government headed by Premier Bennett continues to build on a twenty-year record of achievement ... with new policies for all the people of British Columbia. Keep that record in mind on August 30th.

Dock Fight Hardens

Times News Services

Battle lines have hardened in the work stoppage at Vancouver docks with longshoremen continuing to demand that employers hire men through the union office and the employers wiring Ottawa and provincial premiers that the union is to blame for the shutdown.

Also, the longshoremen in Vancouver and five other ports including Victoria are conducting strike votes today and Friday.

Six grain ships and all general cargo vessels have been affected by the controversy. The unions want men hired through the dispatching office while employers want to maintain a regular work force on their docks.

ELECTION ROUNDUP

Socreds First to Nominate Full Slate of Candidates

The Social Credit Party is the first to nominate a full slate of 55 candidates for the Aug. 30 provincial election and the New Democratic Party is expected to complete its slate today.

Nominations close Aug. 16 at 1 p.m.

There are still 10 vacancies in the Liberal ranks. The Progressive Conservatives, making their first major provincial effort since E. Davie Fulton led the party in 1963, have eight candidates left to nominate.

In addition, another Social Credit incumbent — Dr. Howard McDermid — has switched ridings. He moved from Alberni to Oak Bay, where he is challenging Tory G. Scott Wallace.

By far the most durable of the Social Credit candidates is Premier Bennett himself. He has held the Okanagan South riding since 1944 and is fighting his 11th campaign there.

The Socreds completed their slate with nomination by acclamation of incumbent Frank Ney in Nanaimo riding. Ney, 51, is also mayor of Nanaimo.

Six Social credit members of the last house are not running under the party banner.

This time, retiring are party whip Hunter Vogel of Langley, Works Minister W. N. Chant of Victoria, Recreation Minister Ken Kierman of Chilliwack, Harold Merilees of Vancouver-Burrard and Dudley Little of Skeena.

Incumbent John Tisdale of Saanich and the Islands lost the Social Credit nomination to Foster Isherwood but may seek re-election as an independent.

In the other parties, all of the incumbents have been renominated.

In Abbotsford, Mayor Al Holder of Chilliwack was no

VANCOUVER (CP) — An American arrested last week in a massive drug roundup on the U.S. West Coast was about to close a deal for 320 acres of ranchland near Vernon, it was reported Wednesday.

Law enforcement officials in the United States said there were indications the ranch was to be used as a command by the Brotherhood of Eternal Love, the drug cult commanded by Dr. Timothy Leary.

U.S. officials also speculated that Dr. Leary, who faces deportation in October from Switzerland where he fled after escaping prison in the U.S., may have been considering living on the ranch himself.

Carleton Andre Youngstrom II, one of about 30 brothel members arrested, was carrying a document relating to the land deal when he was picked up.

Emergency  U.K. Airlift

Times News Services

LONDON — The government today ordered military planes to mount an emergency airlift of food and other vital supplies to Britain's most northerly offshore islands.

The airlift was ordered to head off threatened starvation in the Orkney and Shetland islands north of Scotland, which have been virtually isolated by a nationwide ports shutdown now in its 14th day. (See also Page 15).

Striking longshoremen refused to load even emergency supplies to the 34,000 islanders.

The military airlift to the Orkneys and Shetlands was the first time the government has used the emergency powers it took a week ago.

But it postponed at least until next week use of troops to move foodstuffs blockaded in strikebound seaports around the country.

There appeared little prospect of return to work for another 10 days.

Wide-bellied Hercules transport aircraft at the Royal Air Force base of Kinloss, northern Scotland, were standing by to fly 180 tons of flour, cereals, cooking fats and sugar to the Orkney and Shetland islands.

An RAF spokesman said the airlift will begin Friday. Private airlifts have already proved insufficient.

The dock workers ignored pleas from islanders' leaders for a temporary break in the docks blockade which has left hundreds of tons of vital supplies for the Hebrides and other islands strike-bound on the quays of Glasgow docks.

Another airlift to the western isles was expected shortly.

"If the government wants these supplies moved, they should use their emergency powers," one longshoremen's official said.

"The ball is in the government's court — they should do something about it."

Prime Minister Edward Heath's government last week declared a state of emergency to cope with the effects of the dock strike — which has crippled imports of food for animals and humans and stalled exports worth millions of dollars — but has not yet invoked it.

The plight of the western isles and of the Shetland and Orkney islands, all of which rely on supplies from the mainland, was a foretaste of what is in store for all of Britain if the strike goes on much longer.

Hail, Twisters Rip Into Quebec Farms

By The Canadian Press

The weather system which devastated southeastern Quebec's farmlands early this week struck again Wednesday as hailstorms, rain and high winds brought power blackouts to thousands of residents.

Sporadic blackouts lasting 10 minutes to six hours hit a 30-mile stretch from St. Georges to Waterloo, 50 miles east of Montreal. Boucherville and Chateauguay, just south of Montreal, also suffered power failures.

A small tornado sliced through a section of the Laurentian community of St. Cleophas Wednesday, cutting

Pistol Ban Nearer

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Gun control in the United States has taken a hesitant step forward with approval of a ban on the sale of the snub-nose "Saturday night special" — a cheap, small pistol that accounts for thousands of lives each year.

The legislation still has to go through the House of Representatives and is weaker in many ways than wanted by some anti-gun senators. It's fate in the House is uncertain.

But the legislation's chief sponsor, Democratic Senator Birch Bayh of Indiana, told reporters that Senate approval Wednesday night of the ban on the "specials" still was a significant contribution in the fight against crime. The vote was 68 to 25.

The chief target of the bill is the "specials," a cheap and often unreliable pistol assembled in the United States from parts imported from overseas.

By setting standards for barrel length and other factors, the bill also would bar the sale of some small, high-quality handguns that are as easily hidden as the Saturday night special.

But it would do nothing about the millions of pistols, and revolvers already in private hands.

Another small twister hit the outskirts of Ottawa.

Victory Goldbloom, Quebec minister responsible for the environment, is to make a helicopter tour of the area today to assess the damages inflicted by torrential rains which began Monday night.

Maurice Guinois, president of the Montreal Association of Market Gardeners, estimated that $5 million worth of vegetables and hay crops have been ruined.

11-YEAR-OLD HIT IN DRUG ROBBERY

BOSTON (AP) — An 11-year-old boy is in poor condition and a 15-year-old companion is in critical condition following a shootout at a Roxbury variety store where, police said, a robbery was staged to get money to buy heroin.

Another youth was arrested at Boston City Hospital where he brought one of his wounded friends, and a fourth, who police said has a $40-a-day heroin habit, is at large.

The 11-year-old boy was in poor condition at hospital following surgery for a gunshot wound in the head. The 15-year-old was critical with wounds in the back, arms and both legs.

Police said four youths entered the store and one of them pulled a gun from his belt and fired three shots at the youths.

Gunman's Capture Sparks IRA Riots

The troops finally drove the mob off with rubber bullets.

Meehan, 26, a docker who became a top leader of the provisional wing of the outlawed IRA, had been on the run since last December when he staged a dramatic break from Belfast's Crumlin Road jail.

Several weeks ago he returned to his old haunts in the Ardoyne, never sleeping two nights in the same house or drinking twice in the same pub.
